Victims Of Crash Ordered To Jump But Time Ran Out

Lone Survivor Of Air Tragedy Has No Idea Of Cause Of Fire

OTTAWA (CP)—The lone survivor said today flames raced so swiftly through a United States Air Force plane early Tuesday there wasn't time for any more of the six occupants to bail out as he did.

"Four of them had their parachutes on," Master Sergeant Gwyn Long told reporters in describing the crash that took five lives, including that of U.S. Ambassador Laurence Steinhardt, 11 miles south of here.

"They didn't get out. There wasn't time for them to try. I had told them to bail out, but something happened. They didn't make it. There wasn't time. Everything happened very fast."

Long, lying in a hospital bed, told a press conference of a spontaneous, raging inferno that started in the right wing of the twin-engine Dakota transport plane, exploded the engine, invaded the interior and snarled angrily behind the men who had their parachutes on.

"The pilot, Lt. Col. Wayne Trueblood, had been holding her steady so we could bail out. We were getting ready to jump when the right wing blew and it spread to the inside of the plane. We were going down very fast all of a sudden. I figured we had six or seven seconds. I went ahead and bailed out from 600 to 800 feet up."

PLANE CHECKED

He said he hadn't the "vaguest idea" what caused the fire.

This, chronologically, was the story Long told.

"We took off from Rockcliffe airport at 8:10. There has been a very good check on the plane before takeoff. Col. Trueblood was flying her. He took us up to our cruising altitude of 3,000 feet and leveled out and we were cruising along."

"All at once fire was noted in the right engine. Instantly the flames were completely out of control. Col. Trueblood stayed at the controls. He sent me back to tell everybody to bail out. He told me to get the 'chutes and see that they put them on."

"Captain Tom Archibald was co-pilot. He went back, with the others, to get his 'chute on. There was no talking that I can remember. I don't know if they all had their parachutes on but the ambassador did."

"Everybody had a parachute. Col. Trueblood's parachute was laid out for him so he could grab it on the way out. He had been planning to hold her steady until we got out, then he would make a run for it."

RIGHT WING WENT

"The ambassador was sitting on the right side at the front. He moved to the rear to get his 'chute on. If he hadn't he would have been burned. We were getting ready to jump when the right wing blew and the fire spread to the inside."

"The tanks blew the engine off. I don't know if the whole wing went with it. The fire was pretty terrific. You couldn't tell. The plane staggered. We started going down very fast. I figured we had no more than six or seven seconds left. I went ahead and bailed out. I opened the door on the left-hand side and jumped. We were at 600 to 800 feet, going into a slow roll."

Long said Trueblood had the plane under control until the explosion. After that it went down fast.

What happened after he jumped, he doesn't know. He was asked if he thought sabotage might have caused the fire.

"I have no knowledge of sabotage... I hardly think so."

Bevin Expects Long Peace If Pact Holds Up

LONDON (AP)—The Foreign Ministers of the 12 Atlantic Pact countries will meet in London May 8 to chart new western moves in the cold war and confront Russia with a greater unified strength.

Foreign Secretary Bevin, announcing the date of the meeting, said he foresaw a long peace if the Atlantic Alliance grew firmer and the eastern world could be held as its ally.

"I think the day is not far distant," said Bevin, "when the growth of this power... will create a situation where there will be no alternative but to negotiate, to settle once and for all this problem that has cursed the world for so long."

His words were taken to mean he thought the Soviet Union, facing the combined western strength, would have no alternative but to negotiate with the west on problems dividing the world.

The meeting of the 12 foreign ministers, who make up the council of the year-old Atlantic Pact, was called by State Secretary Acheson of the United States, chairman of the council, at Britain's suggestion.

Along with this meeting Bevin announced that he, Acheson and France's foreign minister, Robert Schuman, would hold a separate Big Three conference.

Thus, the Atlantic Pact machine begins to roll into high gear. Bevin told the House of Commons there is a growing desire among the allied powers to deal with economic and political problems as well as with mutual defence.

In line with this the finance ministers of the 12 pact countries meet here today to discuss arrangements for financing the defence of the allied western world. Military chiefs of staff of the 12 countries Tuesday in The Hague, Holland, adopted unanimously an integrated plan assigning responsibilities to each country for the defence of the whole alliance.

U.N. TO FRAME WORLD PACT ON HUMAN RIGHTS

Difficulties Worsened When Reds Walk Out

LAKE SUCCESS, N.Y. (CP)

—The United Nations today tackled the complex job of framing an international pact on human rights.

The pact is the second hurdle in the tough course towards an international bill of human rights. A universal declaration of human rights was adopted by the U.N. General Assembly in Paris Dec. 10, 1948. The third hurdle will be to work out a system of enforcing the pact, officially called the covenant.

The declaration, which states fundamental political, civil, economic and social rights, already has been copied in part in the constitutions of Israel, India and Indonesia. Courts in the United States have cited it.

But so far, U.N. members have only a moral duty to adhere to the obligations it outlines. A pact will give the rights set down a legal context.

STAGED WALK-OUT

Difficulties in the way of obtaining world-wide agreement on a covenant were aggravated Monday when the commission on human rights opened its spring session. Russia, Czechoslovakia and Poland walked out, protesting the majority's refusal to oust Chinese Nationalist delegates.

But as in other U.N. groups boycotted by the Russian-bloc countries, the commission decided to continue work.

The Soviet-bloc countries abstained when the General Assembly approved the declaration by a vote of 48 to 0 with nine abstentions. Russia has recently advised the U.N. that she will object to any international enforcement agency to check complaints of violations of human rights.

Canada is not a member of the 18-country commission. But the Dominion approved the declaration at Paris after noting some "misgivings" on certain inadequacies and ambiguities in its drafting.

Outlook For B.C. Lumber Industry Much Brighter

VANCOUVER (CP)—Wrapped in gloom, two months earlier, the British Columbia lumber industry looks confidently to 1950 because of a booming American market.

A harsh winter, following fast on harsh United Kingdom austerity edicts slashing wartime imports, caused the biggest B.C. industry internal quakes a few months ago.

The industry that supplies 42 per cent of each productive dollar for the province expects the largest business since 1948 when business totaled more than $300,000,000.

Building booms in the nation and the U.S. have created demands that mills, closed two months in the bitterest winter this province has recorded, have trouble filling. Yet Premier Byron Johnson has returned only this week from a United Kingdom mission intended to coax pre-war and wartime markets there to return to the fold.

Prices for construction-grade lumber is nudging all-time peaks in some lines while the summer building season in both countries indicates a lag in supply—if not a backlog for the winter months. The last British order for B.C. lumber—132,000,000 board feet valued at about $10,000,000—was required by June, but none has been promised for September. The more-than-32,000 woodworkers, plus the thousands of other persons employed in the industry indirectly, likely will be working overtime to supply that.

Devaluation of the Canadian dollar is said responsible for much of the American switch to purchasing. In 1939, for instance, the U.K. took 58 per cent of the B.C. output, compared to nine by the U.S.

The B.C. Lumber Manufacturer's

Association reported that in 1949 the rate was 27 per cent for the U.K. to 32 for the U.S., and an even greater switch is expected this year in the buying ratio—perhaps one reason why the province is attempting to ensure U.K. markets will remain available.

That, plus developments in pulp and paper, rayon and plywood production, are what the province hopes will keep its immense forest supplies in the front of international competition that has become increasingly severe in the last two years.

TOKYO (AP)—Skipper Koichi Miura hauled in the nets of his 21-ton fishing sloop and found a knapsack full of 100-yen notes. If no one claims the 500,000 yen within a year, Miura may keep the $1,400 catch.

NEW WESTMINSTER (CP)—Plans for a $1,200,000 high school here were announced Tuesday by the school board. The school, to replace the two present high schools here, will include vocational and technical training, a special meeting was told. Construction is expected to begin late this year.

HAYLIFT MAY SAVE CATTLE

CHICAGO (UP)—The U.S. government today considered appeals for an emergency haylift to save starving cattle in blizzard-ravaged North Dakota.

A district official of the general service administration hurried to Bismark, N.D., today to investigate farmers' reports that their livestock, floundering in 30 inches of new snow, were starving.

Still To Press Markets Search

VANCOUVER (BUP)—Foreign trade expert Edwin T. Orr of the Vancouver Board of Trade said today that Finance Minister Abbott's budget still left unsolved the problem of finding overseas markets for Canada's primary products.

Abbott said that the drop in Canadian overseas exports had been more than offset by an increase in exports to the United States. Orr said this should not prevent efforts being made to rejuvenate the overseas market.

Benefit To Producer Considered Necessary

By CANADIAN PRESS

The ordinary consumer apparently isn't going to see much change as a result of the federal budget tax changes in ice cream, dairy drinks and whipping cream; likewise on the elimination of the excise tax on toilet soaps.

But officials of orphanages and of institutions for the aged and infirm are enthusiastic over the elimination of the 8 per cent sales tax on purchases made for such institutions.

Effective immediately the sales tax on ice cream, dairy drinks and whipping cream is eliminated, but it's up to the retailer in most places whether this means a cheaper price to the consumer.

"The customer may be paying a few cents less for his ice cream, but it's up to the retailer because he has been absorbing the tax," explained L. A. Wallis, manager of Silverwood Dairies at London, Ont. "We will still sell it to the retailer at the same price."

A dairy industry spokesman at Montreal said removal of this tax would relieve the dairies of "a severe drag. Up to now we've had to absorb the whole amount," he said. "However it will take some time before the full effect is known."

The tax cut on dairy drinks eliminates an impost that had been absorbed by the dairies and therefore the consumer is not expected to be affected.

MANUFACTURERS MEET

A dairy industry official at Winnipeg agreed it's not likely there will be much change in ice cream prices. Winnipeg milk distributors and ice cream manufacturers are meeting today to discuss the tax removal.

Procter and Gamble Company of Canada Ltd., said in Toronto that the government's removal of the 5 per cent tax on toilet soaps may mean a slight reduction in retail prices of six P. and G. soaps.

FRACTION OF CENT

P. and G. selling prices to retailers will be cut immediately by the amount of the 5 per cent reduction, a spokesman announced. It was believed many retailers would pass on the saving—a fraction of a cent a cake—to consumers.

Thomas J. Williams, vice-president of Colgate-Palmolive-Peet Company Ltd., said he sees no immediate change in prices. The price of oils used in soap manufacture had risen recently and the tax elimination might help prevent further boosts.

New Sawmill For Ocean Falls

VANCOUVER (BUP)—A new $1,300,000 sawmill will replace the present Pacific Mills structure at Ocean Falls by early 1951.

Officials said here today that excavation for the foundation will begin at once and the mill should be completed "early next year."

The new mill will replace the one which has met the paper company's requirements since inception of the industry in 1915. Ocean Falls is 300 miles up coast from Vancouver.

Penicillin Still To Bear Duty Of 20%

OTTAWA (CP)—A government tariff authority today stated that a tariff change on drugs announced in the budget was "confusing" and that penicillin will not be classified as a biological product.

That item, he said, will still bear a tariff of 20 per cent when imported into Canada, under the category of chemical imports.

The Canadian Press had reported that under the budget, penicillin would enter Canada duty free.

However, such other products as serums, antitoxins, viruses, toxins, toxoids, vaccines and allergenic products required in the treatment of human disease will be allowed into Canada duty free under a new definition inserted in the Canadian tariff.

Finance Minister Abbott disclosed in his budget speech that for many years administrative authorities have held that penicillin and similar antibiotics were classified as chemicals and therefore were dutiable.

CASE IN COURT

This has caused some confusion and one Canadian importer has gone so far as to appeal the duty and the case is now before the Exchequer Court for a final decision.

To end this confusion, the government will insert an appropriate definition of biological products in the tariff, Mr. Abbott said, and then refer the whole question to the Tariff Board for thorough investigation and recommendation.

The authority explained that no matter what decision may be brought down by the Exchequer Court in the penicillin case, penicillin still will be classified as a chemical and not a biological product.

"This was not made clear in the budget," he stated, "but that is the way the matter stands."

Truck Drivers Plan Strike For Thursday

Drivers and yard workers at Evans, Coleman and Johnson Ltd., Victoria, building supply firm, will walk out on strike Thursday unless they are offered a "suitable" work agreement by management.

The workmen, represented by Division No. 234, Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Employees (C.B.R.E.), are seeking a 15-cent-a-hour wage increase, eight paid statutory holidays and an eight-hour work day.

They rejected a majority conciliation board report which would have provided 3-cent-an-hour wage increases to all workmen receiving less than $1.22, three paid statutory holidays for everyone and a 42½-hour week. They also turned down a 4-cent-an-hour offer made last week for those receiving less than $1.22.

Present rates of pay for employees of the firm are as follows:

Laborers, 98 cents an hour; truck drivers, $1.12 to $1.22; crane, bulldozer and shovel operators, $1.34.

Sunny today and Thursday; ground frost in the low areas tonight. Little change in temperature; light winds. Low tonight 34, high tomorrow 50.

Refunds On Auto Licences

Three Provisions To Return Fees

Private and opposition members of the Legislature won a fight in the House today over amendments to the Motor Vehicle Act.

The government gave way to their demands when allowance was made for motorists paying $5 for a five-year driver's license to obtain a refund if they voluntarily surrendered the license before the five years expired.

The House passed the amendments which include provision also for a five-year car license plate for which a year tab will be issued annually.

The government had planned on the five-year driver's license only to make refunds in three cases:

1. When the licensee died before the five years were up;
2. When he moved to another province; or
3. When he failed to pass tests on ability to drive after issuance of the license.

The automatic refund for drivers voluntarily surrendering their licenses before the end of the five-year period was demanded first by Arthur Turner, C.C.F., Vancouver East.

Other opposition members and a number of private members of the Coalition also called for the refund in this instance.

Attorney-General Gordon Wismer feared the move would give the motor vehicle branch additional work in that some drivers might turn in their licenses to obtain the refund "to tide them over until pay day." Then they would take out another license when they had the money.

New Brunswick's Budget New High

FREDERICTON (CP)—For the first time in history New Brunswick's budget went over the $30,000,000 mark when Provincial Treasurer Boucher estimated the province will show a surplus of $118,223 in the fiscal year ending next Oct. 31.

Bringing down his first budget, Mr. Boucher estimated revenue at $30,221,531 and expenditures at $30,103,318. In the previous fiscal year actual revenue was $29,453,138 and expenditures $27,599,678.

Second U.N. President Backs Red China Entry

Aranha Of Brazil Supports Lie's Demand; Holds Both Sides To Blame

LAKE SUCCESS, N.Y. (UP)—Dr. Oswaldo Aranha of Brazil, former President of the United Nations General Assembly, went on record today in support of admission of the Chinese Communist government to the world organization.

In a cablegram to U.N. headquarters, Aranha, former Brazilian foreign minister, gave strong support to Secretary-General Trygve Lie's suggestion that Mao Tse-tung's government be given the seat now held by Chiang Kai-shek's Nationalist government. If inquiry shows that the new Communist regime effectively controls China.

Aranha, who presided during the second session, was the second Assembly President in two days to support Lie's plans for ending the impasse in the U.N. and easing the east-west cold war. Tuesday, Dr. Herbert V. Evatt of Australia called endorsement of Lie's proposal for a special security council "peace session" to include as many foreign ministers and chiefs of state as possible.

The current paralysis of the U.N. was precipitated when Russia walked out of the security council Jan. 13, and subsequently extended its boycott throughout the less prominent bodies of the world organization, protesting the presence of Nationalist China. The Soviets vowed that they would not return until Chiang Kai-shek's representatives had been ousted.

In his message Aranha criticized both the Russians for their walkouts and the American-led bloc which has refused to vote the Nationalists out of the organization.

"I see no reason for objection to the admission of the China of today into the U.N.," Aranha said. "Any policy which seeks to deny or to escape reality is wrong. It is in the world of facts that we should seek a field of understanding for the aims and aspirations of peoples."

Gordie Howe's Outlook 'Good'

DETROIT (CP)—Gordie Howe, Detroit Red Wings, star winger severely injured Tuesday night in a Stanley Cup playoff game, will remain on the hospital's "serious list" for 24 hours, doctors said today. They added, however, that the outlook for the young Saskatchewan native is "good."

Howe underwent a brain operation in the early hours of the morning and was still under oxygen at noon today. A thorough examination later in the morning disclosed that, in addition to the brain injury, he suffered a fractured nose and lacerations of the jaw.

Physicians said there was no fracture of the jaw and no injury to Howe's eye. The doctors declined comment on what the injuries might mean to Howe's future career in hockey.

Member Wants Change In Hospital Insurance Director

Bring Plan Under Premier, Transfer Director, He Says

Demands were made in the Legislature today that the government call for certain resignations in the administration of the Hospital Insurance Service and at the same time take the scheme away from Health Minister George Pearson and place it under the Premier's department.

It was felt such action would give the people of the province more confidence in the insurance service.

W. A. C. Bennett, Cdn.-South Okanagan, said the service was in need of a "house cleaning" in view of a report from the standing committee on public accounts that there appeared to be serious confusion and inefficiency in administration of the service.

H. J. Welch, Cdn.-Comox, also called for a change in personnel, saying the executive director (Andrew Pitkethley) should be given another job.

"The people would be satisfied with such a token move in the handling of hospital insurance difficulties," he said.

The Comox member then said the Health Minister, Mr. Pearson, should be relieved of the hospital insurance burden he was carrying.

"The government has made Mr. Pearson ill by piling work of two heavy departments on him," Mr. Welch said. "Mr. Pearson is Provincial Secretary in addition to Health and Welfare Minister."

The Premier's department could take the hospital insurance service load and Mr. Pearson should be given an assistant to lighten his work, the island member said.

Second reading was given amendments to the Hospital Insurance Act which include powers for the cabinet to set premiums and restrict services.

There was much discussion of the changes and strong opposition was voiced from opposition and private members to the "blank cheque" the cabinet was seeking.

Arthur Ash, Cdn.-Saenich, was one of the few members who defended the wider powers for the cabinet. He said similar powers were given last year in passage of the Aluminum Bill.

Education Minister W. T. Straith, who is acting Provincial Secretary, said the powers would not be used "unless absolutely necessary" and they then would be used sparingly.

Mr. Straith referred to deficits of the insurance scheme and pointed out it was increases in salaries of hospital workers which made up the greater part of the losses seen.

NO MENTION OF GRANT

Reeve Disappointed In Abbott Budget

Reeve A. I. Thomas of Esquimalt expressed disappointment today Finance Minister Douglas Abbott made no reference in his budget speech to federal grants in lieu of taxes to municipalities with vast Crown holdings.

The minister last November announced plans for instituting a plan for providing grants to such municipalities. Esquimalt was one of three Canadian centres specifically named in the plan. Benefits were to have started Jan. 1 of this year.

Reeve Thomas said he believes there is still much work to be done by the municipality in negotiating with Ottawa for a grant.

He said an application form sent to the municipality this week in respect to grants asked questions impossible to answer.

Among other things, the municipality was asked to submit dimensions and cubic or square foot content of all government buildings on which it hopes to claim.

"The Crown land in Esquimalt is all National Defence property," the reeve observed. "Imagine what would happen if we sent our assessor down to the dockyard to measure all the buildings and see what was in them."

"The information asked for in this application form is beyond our ability to supply because of security measures."

The reeve said it had been

Reformed Red, Wife Reveal Plot In Union

MONTREAL (BUP)—A self-styled "reformed Communist" and his wife fled in fear of their lives today after baring details of what they said was a Moscow-directed bid to control an A.F.L. textile workers' union.

Sam Baron, Canadian director of the competitive C.I.O. United Textile Workers Union of America, said he, Anselm Beauchamp and Beauchamp's wife had received several telephoned threats from anonymous callers since Tuesday noon.

At that time they told reporters the A.F.L. textile workers' union was a "hotbed of Communists" and that its leaders were present or former members of the Canadian Labor Progressive (Communist) Party.

Baron said the Beauchamps had gone into hiding at a secluded spot "somewhere in Quebec province" at his suggestion.

"You're going to get yours, you —," the militantly Rightist unionist quoted the unidentified callers. He said Beauchamp and his wife were "scared out of their wits and frightened someone would get them after their exposure."

Baron stayed close to his apartment in a classy section of Montreal's west end. "I don't run," he boasted. "I have to stay put."

POLICE HUNT KIDNAPPERS ON ISLAND

Cheminus Man Robbed By Two Who Stole Car

B.C. police on the island today were alerted to be on the lookout for two men who kidnapped a driver, forced him to drive them for a while, took his wallet, pushed him out and then drove off late Tuesday night.

Victim was Ray W. Andrews of Chemainus.

According to Constable Lawrence A. Dolter, of the Chemainus detachment, the kidnapping occurred at the intersection of Crofton Road and the Island Highway at about 10:45 in the evening.

While Andrews has not yet given police a detailed report on the case, it is believed he was driving a 1940 model British station wagon when the two young men stepped out of the bushes and signalled him for a lift.

When they got in, they pretended to have a gun—although Andrews did not see one. They forced their victim to drive them to Cassidy, a distance of about five miles.

PUSHED HIM OUT

There they robbed him of his wallet, pushed him out of the wagon and drove off toward Nanaimo.

The wallet was empty. The wagon is a right-hand drive Ford with license plate number C12-489.

Police south and north of Duncan are maintaining a sharp lookout for the kidnappers. Up to a late hour this afternoon the stolen wagon had not been located.

Trades License Boost Approved

Trades licenses in Victoria now can be increased to bring more than $200,000 annually to the municipal treasury.

The Legislature today gave third reading to an amendment to the Victoria City Act of 1922 which sets a $200,000 ceiling on revenue from trades licenses.

Seeking the information for a book he is writing, the advertiser learned the Times want ads are useful for other purposes besides selling and buying.

SOCIETY HEARD FROM

Princess Margaret's Smoking Criticized

LONDON (UP)—The National Non-Smokers' Association of Britain took a dim view today of Princess Margaret's smoking of a cigarette at a public luncheon Tuesday.

Francis J. Phillips, who founded the organization in 1926, said smoking led young people to deceive their parents. Some even would steal to get enough money to buy cigarettes.

"Princess Margaret's example, while it may have been just to keep someone company, will undoubtedly influence thousands of young girls to take up smoking," Phillips said. "The mass effect of those in high positions is colossal."

Margaret smoked a cigarette for the first time in public at the Warrington civil luncheon Tuesday. Ten of the 20 other guests were women. A -ket followed her example and lit up.

Flying 'Thing' Seen At Trail Pierced Cloud

TRAIL, B.C. (CP)—If little men from another planet are having a look at this world from the interplanetary spaceships which some people believe are the mysterious flying saucers, then they took a gander at the giant plants of the Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company here, if an East Trail woman can believe her eyes.

Mrs. J. E. Doyle was on a bus Tuesday when she saw a strange object streaking through the sky. It was the size of a dinner plate, she said.

Her attention was drawn to it by two white trails it left in its wake.

It was high in the air, said Mrs. Doyle, but "very distinct" and of a greyish color which contrasted with the white of the clouds in the sky.

At first she thought she was seeing things, Mrs. Doyle told reporters, especially when it flew into a cloud, but when it came out at the other side she was convinced this was no flight of fancy.

"I thought perhaps the trails of white were left by an aircraft flying high," she said, "but a second look told me this was no ordinary aircraft."

It was traveling "awfully fast" when it disappeared from view behind the mountains which overlook East Trail.

No one else has so far reported seeing the strange object and Mrs. Doyle said she was too shaken to point out the object to the other passengers on the bus.

No Pact Made On Evacuation From Shanghai

HONG KONG (AP)—A China Navigation Co. official said tonight no agreement has been reached to send a ship to evacuate foreign nationals from Shanghai.

E. G. Price, manager of Butterfield and Swire British shipping company which operates C.N.C., said it would co-operate with American sponsored evacuation plans, but no arrangements have been made. He added:

"I have no word that Shanghai officials agreed to allow the evacuation to take place and I would know if an agreement had been reached."

In San Francisco, President George L. Killon of the American President Lines said he understood Chinese Communist officials at Shanghai had agreed to the evacuation by C.N.C. ship.

More than 1,600 foreign nationals want to leave Shanghai. About 400 are Americans.

ONE WOMAN'S DAY

By NANCY HODGES

PRE-PROROGATION MUSINGS

AS I WRITE THIS, the closing time of the legislative session will be appreciably nearer—if not actually at hand. For there is no way of telling, several days ahead, just when the hour of prorogation will strike—so much depends on how much longer the members, particularly the Opposition, want to talk on those matters which always seems to be left to the final hours.

So it may not be amiss to note the signs that invariably show up at every session about this time. The country members, particularly, begin to reveal symptoms of restlessness after sitting for weeks in the confines of the House, tied down to their seats in its stuffy, sometimes over-heated, atmosphere, which I, too, find trying at times.

SPRING FEVER

AND the farm-members begin to get the far-away look which suggests thoughts about plowing and all the chores that need doing in the spring. Even the town members get a far-away look at times. But from snatches of conversation, you deduce that their particular spring fever takes the form of an urge to go fishing.

However, in all fairness, I must admit that absence from the Chamber has been remarkably limited, in spite of such symptoms. The empty seats that the casual visitor sees belong mostly to the few members absent through illness, or to those who are out of the House temporarily doing business for their constituents in government departments, or winding up the work of the various standing committees.

WHEN WHIP WORKS

THESE temporary absentees are quickly mustered when a division—or recorded vote—is called, as the Whips round them up from the committee rooms and corridors. Incidentally, that brings to my mind an interesting item I read in a London paper the other day concerning the position in the British House of Commons today.

In that ancient Parliament, for some unknown reason, there are only actual seats for about two-thirds of the Legislature, who total 625. That is usually enough, but with the Labor government holding such a narrow majority, party Whips have been seeing to it that every member of every party is in attendance, unless, of course, too ill to attend.

WOULD REVIVE FINES

THIS means that gallery spectators over there are getting used to the extraordinary sight of more than 100 M.P.'s standing for hours on end on the floor of the House—a test of endurance which imposes nervous and physical strain at a time when tempers and nerves are at a high tension. No doubt the over-worked Whips wish they could revive an old statutory punishment for parliamentary truants. This decree, instituted in February, 1667, reads:

"Every defaulter in attendance, whose excuse shall not be allowed this day, be fined the sum of £40 and sent for in custody and committed to the Tower (of London) till fine be paid."

SPEAKER'S FIST

WHILE speaking of the British House, it might be interesting to allude to the variation of procedure in the election of a Speaker there, as compared with our own provincial ceremony. According to a news item from London, describing the opening ceremonies:

"The noises being over, the two back bench sponsors advanced upon Colonel Clifton-Brown (the Speaker-elect) who, according to tradition, shook his fist at them and was then half led and half shoved, protestingly to the Chair."

I am glad that we did not follow British tradition to that extent, at least!

Policeman Ends 22-Year Career To Rejoin Navy

On April 10 Deputy Chief of Police L. G. (Bill) Clayards of Oak Bay will write fairs to a 22-year police career to assume the appointment of command security officer for the Pacific Coast Naval Command. His rank will be lieutenant-commander (S.B.).

This will be the third time he has enlisted in the Royal Canadian Navy.

Deputy Chief Clayards, after four years at sea in the merchant navy during his more youthful years, joined the peacetime R.C.N. in 1921 and served until 1928 when he started his policing career with the Oak Bay force.

He re-enlisted in the navy in 1940 for wartime service and during most of this service was security intelligence officer for this area with the rank of lieutenant. The deputy was instrumental in forming the Pacific Coast naval shore patrol while assistant naval provost marshal here for a year.

Deputy Chief Clayards was Victoria born and educated. Following discharge from wartime service, he maintained an active interest in the police through H.M.C.S. Malahat, Victoria reserve division.

Minor Changes In Federal Taxation

Big Budgets Here To Stay, With Imposts At About Current Rate

OTTAWA (CP)—A prediction that Big Budgets—with taxes running at about their current rate—are here to stay, emerged today as the top-line feature of Finance Minister Abbott's 1950-51 budget presentation to the Commons.

Tuesday night, in a 10,000-word budget speech to a crowded chamber, he indicated that new government policy begins as of now by reporting that he had no major tax changes to make. There were no cuts in rates on personal incomes, liquor, tobacco or succession duties.

He shuffled a few taxes around—dropping a total of $3,000,000 in some places and promptly picking it up in others—and he said the changes were made only to remove anomalies, bring greater equality, clarify obscure points and meet special circumstances.

These are the major tax changes:

1. The 8 per cent sales tax was dropped on ice cream, dairy drinks, prepared whipping cream and on purchases for orphanages and institutions for the aged and the infirm, all effective immediately.

2. The 5 per cent special excise tax is being dropped on toilet soap, effective immediately, because it is too difficult to administer.

3. Special tax concessions allowed for mining and oil prospecting and exploration will be continued for another year and the corporation tax on income received by a trustee for holders of oil royalties will be repealed.

4. Farmers and fishermen are being given a choice in the manner in which they want to apply depreciation allowances to their taxes: closely-held companies of the "family" type are being given a new method of taking their undistributed surpluses; a wider group of firms is going to get a tax concession made last year for small business.

5. Some tariff adjustments are being proposed to bring the British preferential rate more into line with those negotiated in the Geneva agreement. These become effective June 1, 1950.

That was the 1950-51 budget. It had none of the headline elements of the pre-election sunshine budget a year ago.

That time, Mr. Abbott was free-wheeling in his tax cutting. He chopped the income tax revenue by $376,000,000 and told 750,000 low bracket wage-earners they wouldn't have to pay taxes any more.

This time, he told the House and the country Tuesday night, things are different. He used these words:

"Unless we are prepared to reduce the scope or scale of government activities, we must now accept $2,400,000,000 budgets in future years. Nor can we escape the tax implications of this conclusion."

That $2,400,000,000 figure is the stinger in this new budget. It is that total—$2,430,000,000 is the precise amount—which Mr. Abbott said he expects to get in revenue to meet his estimated expenditures of $2,410,000,000. This will leave him with a surplus of $20,000,000 to take off the net debt.

Observers noted that while Mr. Abbott is not changing the tax tables he is budgeting for $118,000,000 less in revenue than he got in 1949-50. Officials said this is because 1950-51 will be the first year to show the full effect of last year's major tax cuts. They apparently were only partially reflected in 1949-50 totals.

Mr. Abbott backed up his prediction of big budgets for the future by pointing to heavy and continuing government expenditures for social security, defence and items of similar nature. If the international situation improved, defence costs would drop but it would be a "bold man" who would make that prediction.

NO CUTS EXPECTED

J. M. Macdonnell (P.C. Toronto Greenwood), Progressive Conservative financial critic, quickly seized on the lack of tax cuts as he briefly opened Opposition criticism of the budget.

The roses, he said, were "somewhat faded." There now was no election in the offing and the government's story was that "we are just scraping along." The Opposition had not expected cuts now.

Mr. Abbott said his few tax concessions—those for toilet soap, orphanages and ice cream and dairy drinks—would bring a tax loss of not more than $3,000,000. He hoped to recoup "at least" that amount through the arrangement for family corporations.

This arrangement, which Mr. Abbott conceded was too complicated to summarize fully, is encouraging family corporations to pay "reasonable" dividends while making it possible for them to hold on to profits essential for their growth without imposing heavy potential tax burdens on shareholders.

Briefly, the government's formula is for a 15-per-cent tax rate on surpluses currently which would eliminate future need of paying personal income tax at, perhaps, a considerably higher rate.

Mr. Abbott told farmers and fishermen they can calculate their depreciation allowances—amounts deducted from taxable income to reflect wear and tear on equipment—either on a new basis introduced last year or on the previous method. Once they elected to use the new method, they could not switch back.

Mr. Abbott said, for those who had been concerned about the possibility that the government is not planning to tax capital gains. The three-man Income Tax Appeal Board will continue to deal with cases which involve, among other things, capital gains.

The main effect on the tariff adjustments, proposed to ease the barriers against United States goods and reduce some segments of British preferential tariff treatment.

Most of the changes eliminate a 10 per cent discount granted to Commonwealth countries on 22 items bearing a rate of more than 15 per cent. One major adjustment was the placing of a 15 per cent tariff on imports on tin plate, which previously were on the free list.

Years Of Suffering Over For Veterans' Families

After searching five years for house, Mr. and Mrs. H. Speidel and family, Wayne, 3, and Hugh, 5, are established today in permanent home provided by Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation.

Long Ordeal Of House-Hunting Ends For Veterans' Families

By HUMPHRY DAVY

Residents on Burton Avenue, a quiet thoroughfare in the Oaklands, have new neighbors today—four families, or to be exact, eight grown-ups and 12 children. They moved in Tuesday all at once and brought new life to the neighborhood.

The new residents belong to a large group of people, mostly veterans and their families, who since the end of the last war have been searching for permanent homes and due to a housing shortage have been obliged to live in make-shift accommodation.

Their long ordeal ended Tuesday, however, when Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation handed over to them new houses equipped with modern facilities and at prices well within their means. The homes are the first completed in a 100 veterans' housing project.

CHILDREN HAPPY

Some of the children who since birth had lived in crowded living quarters nearly went wild with joy yesterday at the sight of their new homes. Here at last was a place where they could move around in freedom with plenty of room in the backyard to play in.

"The children are certainly overjoyed with their new home," commented Mr. H. Speidel, a veteran and father of two boys.

"And I'm mainly glad to get hot running water in kitchen," interjected his wife.

The couple found busily setting up their furniture were as enthusiastic about their new home as the children who ran about from room to room enjoying for the first time in their lives a sense of freedom.

ENDS FIVE-YEAR SEARCH

"They related that for five years they moved from place to place while searching for a home which they could afford to buy. In one year alone they moved five times.

"I've used up more gasoline in my car looking for a house than I have for pleasure and business," said Mr. Speidel. "You

Little Change Seen From Tax Easing

Lifting Of Dairy, Soap Levies Of Most Interest To Retailers

By CANADIAN PRESS

The ordinary consumer apparently isn't going to see much change as a result of the federal budget tax changes in ice cream, dairy drinks and whipping cream; likewise on the elimination of the excise tax on toilet soaps.

But officials of orphanages and of institutions for the aged and infirm are enthusiastic over the elimination of the 8 per cent sales tax on purchases made for such institutions.

Penicillin Still To Bear Duty Of 20%

OTTAWA (CP)—A government tariff authority today stated that a tariff change on drugs announced in the budget was "confusing" and that penicillin will not be classified as a biological product.

That item, he said, will still bear a tariff of 20 per cent when imported into Canada, under the category of chemical imports.

The Canadian Press had reported that under the budget, penicillin would enter Canada duty free.

However, such other products as serums, antitoxins, viruses, toxins, toxoids, vaccines and allergic products required in the treatment of human disease will be allowed into Canada duty free under a new definition inserted in the Canadian tariff.

Finance Minister Abbott disclosed in his budget speech that for many years administrative authorities have held that penicillin and similar antibiotics were classified as chemicals and therefore were dutiable.

Bevin Expects Long Peace If Pact Holds Up

LONDON (AP)—The Foreign Ministers of the 12 Atlantic Pact countries will meet in London May 8 to chart new western moves in the cold war and confront Russia with a greater unified strength.

Foreign Secretary Bevin, announcing the date of the meeting, said he foresaw a long peace if the Atlantic Alliance grew firmer and the eastern world could be held as its ally.

"I think the day is not far distant," said Bevin, "when the growth of this power . . . will create a situation where there will be no alternative but to negotiate, to settle once and for all this problem that has cursed the world for so long."

His words were taken to mean he thought the Soviet Union, facing the combined western strength, would have no alternative but to negotiate with the west on problems dividing the world.

The meeting of the 12 foreign ministers, who make up the council of the year-old Atlantic Pact, was called by State Secretary Acheson of the United States, chairman of the council, at Britain's suggestion.

Victoria will get a glimpse of No. 1 contender for municipal manager when George S. Mooney of Montreal flies to city April 6 for interview. As he was only candidate asked to come for personal interview, results are considered a foregone conclusion.

Mooney At Top Of List For City Manager Post

Recommended Montreal Executive To Fly To Victoria Soon For Interview

George S. Mooney, 49, industrial commissioner of Montreal, listed as No. 1 choice for municipal manager of Victoria by Stevenson and Kellogg, whose report was opened at City Council meeting Tuesday, will fly here April 6 for an interview.

Mr. Mooney had earlier advised Mayor Percy George he would be able to fly here on that date. If chosen by council, he will be able to take over the post about July 1.

Cecil C. Wyatt, 52, city clerk-comptroller of Kingston, Ont., was second choice, and W. Arthur Greene, city clerk-comptroller of New Westminster, third choice. Mr. Greene was a former comptroller-treasurer of Saanich.

Mr. Mooney, who has been reputed to be a $23,000-a-year executive in Montreal, said he would accept $12,000 a year.

On motion of Ald. Waldo Skillings, council agreed Mr. Mooney would be flown to Victoria for a personal appearance before council makes its decision.

PRaises Screening

Ald. Skillings said Stevenson and Kellogg had done a first-class job of screening and evaluating.

He did not feel that all three candidates needed to be brought here, in that Mr. Mooney was selected as first choice. The two points on which Ald. Skillings wanted clarification from Mr. Mooney were reason for the acceptance of the salary of $12,000 in view of his present position, and whether his health is satisfactory.

He will appear before a special council meeting to be called by Mayor Percy George.

"I feel this is the best step to take," said Mayor George, referring to the necessity of information regarding Mr. Mooney's health.

"We should see who we have in mind, I endorse it."

CONSERVATIVES AID LABOR

Rebellious Followers Quit Attlee But Vote Won By Govt. 198-80

LONDON (UP)—Rebellious rank and file Laborites voted against the Labor government in the Commons, but failed to carry a protest vote early today against the banishment of an African tribal chief and his white wife.

The government won the vote, 198 to 80.

Although it was the first time in the new Commons that any Labor members have voted against the government, numerous Conservative absentees and abstentions saved the government from a defeat that might have led to its fall.

Labour has a nominal majority of only three in the present 621-member house. However, the chamber was only partly filled when the vote was taken shortly after 1 a.m. and the government rolled up its largest majority yet in the new Parliament.

The vote was on a sudden government motion to shut off debate after Commonwealth Secretary Gordon Patrick Walker had told the House the government's decision to banish Bama-gwato Chief Seretse Khama from his native Bechuanaland was irrevocable.

Among the Labor members who defiantly trooped into the Opposition lobby for the vote count were Jennie Lee, wife of Health Minister Aneurin Bevan;

Richard Crossman, assistant editor of the influential New Statesman and Nation; Thomas Driberg, Michael Foot, Woodrow Wyatt, Ian Mikado and Fenner Brockway.

Both Conservatives and Lib-erals joined the Laborites in protesting the government's decision. They warned it might alienate great segments of the Commonwealth's colored population in Africa, India, Pakistan and Malaya.

But Gordon-Walker said there was no possibility that the government would make any further concessions for Khama and his white wife.

Khama has been permitted to go back to his Bama-gwato tribal reserve in Bechuanaland to be with his wife when she gives birth to their first child in June, he said, but both must leave the protectorate immediately afterward for at least five years.

U.N. Facing Tough Task With Human Rights Pact

LAKE SUCCESS, N.Y. (CP)—The United Nations today tackled the complex job of framing an international pact on human rights.

The pact is the second hurdle in the tough course towards an international bill of human rights. A universal declaration of human rights was adopted by the U.N. General Assembly in Paris Dec. 10, 1948. The third hurdle will be to work out a system of enforcing the pact, officially called the covenant.

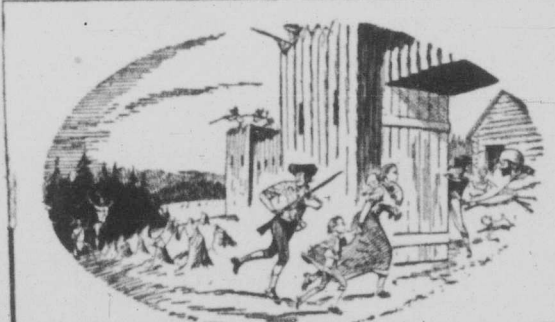

The declaration, which states fundamental political, civil, economic and social rights, already has been copied in part in the constitutions of Israel, India and Indonesia. Courts in the United States have cited it.

But so far, U.N. members have only a moral duty to adhere to

The Family's Greatest Need is still SECURITY!

Hazards that threaten family security today have nothing in common with the terrors faced by the early settlers. Yet they are no less real because of that.

For instance—who in this world faces a more precarious future than the widow left in straitened circumstances with a family to support? What more destructive of family life than the necessity of combining the heavy duties of wage-earner and mother?

The "stockade" behind which the modern family can find security against such financial disaster is Life Insurance: For most families it is the only means of protection against loss of the breadwinner. It can be arranged to provide a guaranteed monthly income.

Generally Satisfactory Situation

AS WAS GENERALLY ANTICIPATED, the budget brought down yesterday by Finance Minister Douglas Abbott contained no spectacular changes in the tax structure. Minor adjustments were effected, but any who hoped for important reductions in national levies were doomed to disappointment. That condition, it appears, will continue to apply for several years at least. Mr. Abbott made it plain that the scope of government services has now developed to a point where a return to the income tax rates of the "good old days" prior to the Second World War is neither feasible nor likely. Social welfare measures, pensions, defence and other accounts have increased enormously from those days. The bills for them must be paid.

The size of the budget—revenue is expected to total $2,430,000,000 this year—is an indication of the growth of the Dominion. Although it is $100,000,000 less than last year, it still remains at a level that would have been termed fantastic only a few years ago. The net debt of this country—announced yesterday at $11,665,000,000—is likewise a gauge of our national standing. As we entered the Second World War, that debt stood at a little more than $3,000,000,000. Thus, it will be obvious that nationhood has not been without its price.

Housewives, on whom in the long run most budgetary items impinge, will find little alteration in their financial status. Such slight tax reductions as are included in Mr. Abbott's statement will make little difference in their purchases. Ice cream, dairy drinks and toilet soap are not major items in household economics.

The general impression to be gained from this annual accounting is that Canada is in an enviable position, all things considered. In few countries in the world is our living standard equaled or bettered; our high national tax revenue reflects not so much a heavy impost on meagre earnings as a reasonable levy on unusually high incomes among the masses of the people. With such a situation there can be little quarrel; we may consider ourselves fortunate if we can maintain this condition.

Not Doing So Badly

APART FROM MR. ABBOTT'S STATEMENT about taxation in general, the people of Canada will note with satisfaction that there still is a surplus of $111,000,000 of revenue over expenditure for the 1949-1950 fiscal year compared with $395,000,000 for 1948-1949. This smaller surplus naturally will not satisfy some of the captious critics of the Dominion's financial policy. But the Minister of Finance was very careful to say that certain economic conditions in Canada—as in other parts of the North American continent—are subject to world conditions. At the same time, it was significant that the Minister was able to inform the House of Commons that Canada's reserves of gold and United States dollars totalled $1,204,200,000 as at March 25, compared with a dangerous low of $461,000,000 in December, 1947, and with $1,117,100,000 at Dec. 31, 1949.

What this means, if it means anything at all financially, is that the guardian of the national till has done a good job. Mr. Abbott may be accused of a species of wishful thinking when he said that the consensus of informed views about the outlook for 1950—as it affects both Canada and the United States in respect of employment—may undergo no substantial change. But there is no reason for the Minister to be downhearted, for he envisions a moderate increase in employment in this vast country which may catch up with the growth in the total labor supply. Federal and provincial governments, or so we have been led to believe, are committed to a general program of home building. This is important in many ways. Into the erection of a home, for example, enters the labor of artisans under numerous headings. Consequently, the more people who own their own homes in Canada—giving the employment which the Minister of Finance envisages—the greater is the bulwark against the invasion of those isms of foreign origin to which all sane-thinking people object. Naturally enough, Mr. Abbott is disappointed at the apparent inability of overseas countries to resume their traditional share of the Canadian import market. There is nothing new in this manifestation of ministerial disappointment. From the time Sir Wilfrid Laurier cut down the duties on imports from Great Britain in 1897—and he did it without strings—this country, until a few years ago, enjoyed a trade balance with the United Kingdom often as high as three dollars to one.

It was obvious that this condition could not last. International trade is not a one-way street. Nevertheless, before the Second World War—and before Great Britain stood almost alone to defend our democratic way of life and paid for that campaign by selling out all her overseas investments—Canada's favorable balance of trade with the U.K. enabled successive Dominion Ministers of Finance to meet the deficits which occurred from year to year in our trading relationships with the United States.

It was only natural that Mr. Abbott should say, or imply, that the economic outlook for the rest of this year and for 1951 does not present such a promising outlook as he would have liked to detail to the House of Commons when he introduced his budget last night. But no statesman in these days can say, with any degree of certainty, what the future has in store. While this truism is well understood, the fundamental fact still remains that if this highly-favored land is to survive and expand, it behooves every citizen to contribute his and her best to its welfare.

Too Cold To Fight Major Battles?

SOME ENCOURAGEMENT IS GIVEN by the statement of Maj.-Gen. M. H. S. Penhale, General Officer Commanding Western Command, that no major military invasion of the north country should be expected if a Third World War broke out. The extreme cold of the regions in which the recent Sweetbrier Exercise was carried out suggests that assault from the north may be put into the deep freezer. It is not practical to operate under the conditions that prevail. No false confidence in the impregnability of the northland will arise from this statement, however. What applies to ground manoeuvres would not apply to attack by air over the polar circle. Moreover, Canadian military men will not be inclined to forget the lesson taught by the Japanese. It was not believed possible to make sweeps through the jungle in Malaya until the enemy did it. In defence arrangements, the field of action that may be considered impossible has a very small circumference. What is of more than passing significance, however, is that the rigorous experiences of Exercise Sweetbrier will have furnished military men with the information required to meet any less serious attacks from an enemy seeking to operate in the far north. The experts know how the efficiency of troops is reduced when they operate at temperatures below freezing. It will be part of their responsibility to see how the loss of efficiency can be overcome. That presents problems in research which will not be ignored.

Spring is that period when the weather sometimes doesn't play ball with the baseball players.

Problem Of Animal-Research Still Upsets Public Opinion

By BRUCE BLOSSAT From New York

IN NEW YORK, California, the District of Columbia and other places law-makers are facing this issue: Should dogs be used for medical research?

The issue isn't new. It keeps bobbing up in states and cities all over North America. But the odd thing is it is being kept alive by a very small but loud minority. A public opinion poll showed 85 per cent of U.S. people believe dogs should be available to medical science.

NOT NECESSARY?

The objectors protest that dogs subjected to medical experiments are "cruelly" treated. They decry the fact that some of these animals are "cut up" in surgical tests. And they argue that dogs aren't necessary to research.

What are the facts?

Millions of lives have been saved as result of research performed on dogs and other animals. Diseases which once were mass killers—smallpox, diphtheria, lobar pneumonia, typhoid, syphilis and diabetes—today are largely under control because of animal experiment.

All serums, anti-toxins and vaccines were first worked out on animals. The discoverer of valuable streptomycin says its worth could not have been determined without tests on dogs. The U.S. Food and Drug Administration requires that all new drugs be thoroughly tried on animals before being applied to humans.

The search for cures for cancer, high blood pressure, polio and other dread diseases is absolutely dependent upon use of test animals. Dogs are particularly useful in cancer studies, for their physical and chemical make-up is in many ways close to that of humans.

Dogs employed in research are not pets but unwanted animals marked for death in public pounds. When experimenters get them, some die in the course of tests. But other dogs live on for a long time. All are given good care. Anesthetics are used wherever possible when surgery is called for, but naturally not every operation is painless.

It is estimated that medical research needs could be met if only about 1.25 of the unwanted dogs were turned over to schools and laboratories. Only two states, Wisconsin and Minnesota, have laws making unwanted dogs available for research.

ENEMIES OF PROGRESS

At best the opponents of animal research may be described as sincere but misguided people.

The only way to say it is that they are more concerned with saving dogs than they are with saving humans. Indeed, an eastern newspaper survey showed that four out of five anti-vivisectionists who were parents said they would not sacrifice a dog to save a child's life.

It's up to the overwhelming majority of people who wisely grasp the need for animal research to make sure that this strange but noisy minority does not have its way. Every medical school should be allowed the dogs it requires for vital studies. After all, humanity begins with human beings.

Strength Needed

By JOSEPH ALSOP From Frankfurt

WHILE Washington is distracted with such urgent matters as Senator McCarthy's blatant Red hunt, it is probably hardly worth mentioning that the United States is losing the cold war here in Germany. Yet this is the central fact. Unless bold preventive measures are taken, the west must prepare for defeat in the cold war here within two or three years at most.

The danger does not lie in such much-publicized menaces as the revival of German nationalism. The danger lies, rather, in the Kremlin's adoption of new cold war tactics of terror, and in the Kremlin's possession of strength to make those tactics work.

THE Russian strength directly threatening Germany is impressive. The Soviet army in the east zone is now a powerful force of 250,000 men. Because they have been liberated from routine occupation duties by the hiring east German police, these Russian troops are wholly engaged in hard combat training. They have recently been receiving important shipments of mechanized and other new equipment. A supporting air field net, including fields capable of taking the Russian Iliushin B-29, is now being completed.

In addition, there is the new German army now being created in the east zone, which will eventually comprise eight to 12 divisions. This force will not perhaps be reliable for serious combat. But it will certainly be good enough to produce the most far-reaching psychological effects in western Germany.

IN THE FACE of these and many other Soviet and satellite armies deployed in eastern Europe, the U.S. is visibly failing to organize any serious defence. Neither the Russians nor the western Germans are in the least deceived by Secretary of Defence Louis Johnson's loud claims on this point. Their reaction to weakness is already apparent. The Russian reaction is the project for a new Berlin blockade, of which the Free German Youth rally in Berlin on May 28 is only the beginning. The Kremlin is probably not yet ready for a final showdown. The Berlin project may probably still be aborted by absolute western firmness. Yet the mere fact that such an astonishingly provocative project has been launched at this time clearly says two things.

FIRST, the Kremlin is already feeling the increasing boldness that flows from confidence of superior strength. Second, shows of Russian force and exposures of western weakness are now to be the chief Kremlin tactic in the cold war in Europe. It hardly matters whether the Berlin project is aborted; provided the Soviet margin of hard military superiority is permitted to increase still further. In that event, we must soon expect even larger and more threatening demonstrations against the west, which we shall be unable to counter.

FOR this cold warfare of menace, the western Germans, like the rest of the western Europeans, are utterly unprepared. A mere failure to defend the exposed western positions in Berlin will convince every German that Soviet victory is ultimately inevitable. Once that conviction has somehow been conveyed, the vast majority of Germans, although staunchly anti-Communist today, will hasten to come to terms with their prospective new masters.

The Soviets are so sure of the success of their new tactics that they are already hard at work preparing to exploit their anticipated victories. At a recent dinner in Dusseldorf, this correspondent found that each of the seven big industrialists at the table were being almost daily besieged with generous business offers and flattering soft words by east German emissaries of the Soviet high command.

WHILE thus attempting to infiltrate the citadel of the German right wing, the Soviets are also making a concerted effort to destroy the sorely overburdened west German economy, by pouring in further floods of expellees and refugees from the east. In their fore-handed way, they have also organized their own pet extreme right wing party in the east zone. This is the National Democratic Party, headed by one of Goebbels' former chief assistants, Lothar Bolz, with the influential Catholic member of the old German general staff, General Vinzenz Müller, as party secretary. It is to serve as an east-west bridge when the time comes.

ALL these Soviet efforts and preparations will come to nothing, unless the western Germans begin to despair. Indeed, despair is the only real danger in Germany. But in the aftermath of the Second World War, and in the dark shadow of Soviet Power, the Germans are perilously close to despair already. A single American failure—for the final responsibility is wholly American—will push the Germans over the dam. Then all of Germany will irresistibly move into the Soviet camp.

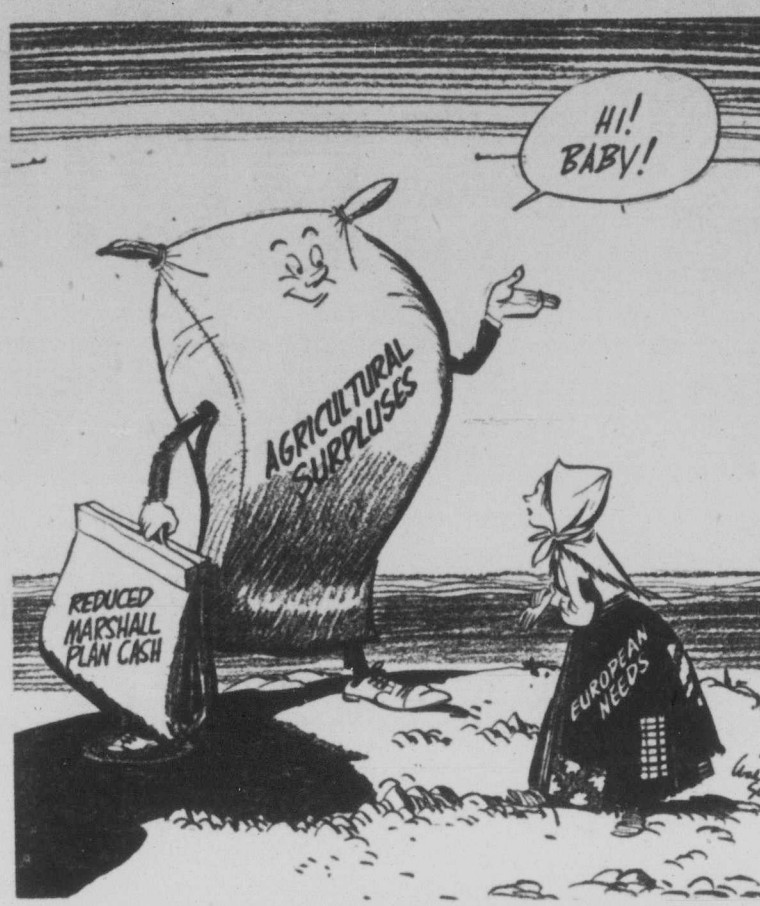

This will be defeat, final, total and irrevocable. This, in short, is a problem that deserves the attention of Senator McCarthy, Senator Wherry and the other men like them, who bellow about "Reds" at home, and meanwhile, with every vote, continuously forward Soviet purposes abroad.

There was considerable criticism in the United States when the United Kingdom, largely in an attempt to protect commercial investments in China, officially recognized the Communist regime there.

But now we have United States commercial interests so eager to do business with Communist China, that they are engaging in blockade-running. Consistency is a virtue often ignored.

How Well Can The Pinch-Hitter Hit?

Italian Communists Stand Ready To Exploit Government Troubles

By CECIL SPRIGGE, from Rome

THE VILLAGE of Lentell in the Abruzzi region (south Central Italy) has joined Melissa (South-West), Modena (North Centre) and Marghera (North-East) in the list of names of imprecation to be shouted by Communist-led mobs against what they call De Gasperi's "machine-gun government."

ARMED CONFLICT

In each of these places within a few weeks the police have fired upon hostile crowds of workpeople or peasants, causing death. Wherever this happens, governmental investigations always reach the conclusion that the police fired only in the last resort to save themselves from being completely over-powered, while investigations by the Communists and their allied organizations instantly endorse the opposite version that the police took the initiative in attacking the peaceful crowd.

Italy's postwar motorized police force, La Celere which is rushed into action wherever major disturbances are threatened, is pretty rough. It is much more ruthless than the traditional Carabinieri police force which keeps order in normal conditions. But the Communist-led gangs of young factory workers and peasants, acting as the vanguard for large crowds who are liable to be armed with hand-grenades, revolvers and long knives and are usually manoeuvring in their own streets or lanes, make no pleasant appearance when some local dispute flares up.

It is Communist skill or good fortune that in the fights at Melissa, Modena, Marghera and Lentella only their own side left dead "martyrs" on the field, although at Marghera twenty police were injured.

Many people think La Celere (the name means "the swift one") might show more skill in denying to the Communists the much-prized blood of martyrs. Unfortunately, hundreds of thousands of the young Italians, who are now either policemen or Communist demonstrators, learned the art of civil war on one side or other in the partisan period when such considerations of avoiding bloodshed hardly arose. That was five years ago but private arsenals of bombs, tommy-guns and explosives, which were buried at the end of the war for future use, are still being discovered by the police. One was found only last week.

Naturally, no information is available here as to whether this particular seed of disorders originates in instructions circulated from Moscow to all European Communist Parties in preparation for the impending arrival of American military equipment in Europe. What is happening can be explained independently of international Communist strategy. Although very broadly speaking, Italian economic conditions have improved since last spring, there has been a slump in agricultural prices and the prospects of export industries sufficient to cause a sharp aggravation of the country's already insoluble mass unemployment problem.

This has goaded De Gasperi's Government into sudden activity about public works and land reform in an anxious desire to spread the expectation among peasants and work-people of better times ahead. This effort is costing De Gasperi much discontent in his own Christian Party's right wing, but the Premier says openly that unless big reforms are rushed through Parliament and quickly applied, Parliamentary democracy in Italy will fall in ruins.

CRITICAL MOMENT

This, therefore, is the moment when the Communists must at all costs force the Government to appear repressive and unpopular. The task is not wholly difficult, because there are aspects of the present administration which millions of non-Communists dislike, notably its too-close relations with the Vatican. If only the Communists can keep the De Gasperi Government looking brutal in its handling of impoverished agitators and foolish they may then hope somehow to wriggle into participation in some alternative government in which they would probably accept any partnership offered them from any quarter.

Participation In Our Government Would Improve Public's Attitude

By JOSEPH LISTER RUTLEDGE

"WE PASSED the winter very pleasantly," so wrote Samuel de Champlain in his records for the book of adventures he was planning. It was the winter of 1606. The place was Port Royal on the not too habitable or hospitable shores of what is now Nova Scotia. One might wonder how it could have been so pleasant, and Champlain has his answer for that too.

GOOD CHEER

"We made good cheer by means of the Order of the Good Time, which I established. . . . This order consisted of a chain which we placed with a certain little ceremony on the neck of one of our number, giving him charge of the hunting for the day. The next day it was passed on to another, and so in order. Everybody exerted himself to see who could do the best and provide the best game."

There was a famous publisher who discovered a sure-fire formula for running a successful newspaper. It was simpler than Champlain's idea, though in essence it was the same.

It was this: "Get every subscriber's name into the news columns, at least once." There it is. Take off the blinders of anonymity and let everyone emerge as a person, even if only once, just as Champlain gave everyone his moment of leadership.

That might be a formula for more than just passing the long winter days or being a successful publisher. Imagine how real a democracy might become if every voter could be a candidate for some public office at least once in his lifetime. Not just a name on a polling list, but a name on a ballot.

We wouldn't be saying then that we wondered how they got such "crummy" guys for public office, because we would know just how the selection was made. We would know too that they were guys pretty much like ourselves, and if we wanted better representatives we might begin by being better citizens ourselves. We wouldn't be so likely to accept government in a "let George do it" attitude.

PART OF IT

We would recognize that one day we would be the "George" in question, and that there would be times when we would need assistance. We wouldn't be so likely to assume that government could take over so many of our obligations, if we thought of ourselves as part of it and responsible for the integrity of its decisions. We might even come to recognize that we already, and always, are the government, not merely its beneficiary.

By DeWITT MACKENZIE

WINSTON CHURCHILL lived a debate in the House of Commons yesterday by reiterating his controversial thesis that the "active aid of western Germany" is essential to the defence of Europe.

"I see no reason why the Germans should not aid in the defence of their own country and of western Europe," declared Churchill. "There can be no hope of a united Europe without Germany, and there is no hope for Germany except without a free and united Europe."

Of course, that is strong mustard for most Europeans, who twice in a generation have seen Germany flinging her mighty armies into a war of wholesale conquest. The world swore after the first upheaval that never again would Germany be permitted to commit another aggression like that. Once more in 1945 the world took a mighty oath to hamstring the Reich for good.

Small wonder that Churchill should encounter challenges to his viewpoint. Yet the old Maestro, who has been right so many times on great issues, is stating a view widely held by objective observers.

Churchill's idea in no way challenges the general determination to prevent Germany from launching further aggression. It would be a crime to let her get out of hand again. But that can be achieved by allied military safeguards—the maintenance of a safe but reasonable control over a long period.

Having provided this control, Germany must be made a part of the European community of nations, if the continent is to regain its vigor.

Any Canadian with an ounce of patriotic red blood in his veins will feel a glow of pride on learning that his country has produced an achievement out of the ordinary, be it in councils of state, in the field of scientific research, or in industrial design.

Feelings of pride are especially likely to arise when the advance has been made in some field that is very much up-to-date and well to the fore in other lands. A case notably in point, therefore, is Canada's new jet-propelled fighter plane; for it appears to be something of "a rabbit out of the hat"—an achievement that is amazing even jet-minded British and American aviation experts.

Tito's quarrel with Russia has made us look on him in a somewhat more favorable light, because he is against what we are against. But it is well to remember that what we have in common with Tito, if important, is limited. The Yugoslav regime is just as dictatorial, just as oppressive, as it was before the break with Moscow, just as much of a hard-handed police state. It is still forcing its people into the same sort of inflexible Communist mold as before.

Ups And Downs

By BRIAN A. TOBIN

"WELL," said the Elevator Man, "I don't know how the ladies are going to take it, but a government official has let the cat out of the bag. He says a large percentage of housewives wander through grocery departments and buy a lot of food they don't need, just because they can't resist the attractive packages and colored labels. He says that's one reason why family grocery bills are getting bigger—the gals get carried away by the pretty wrappings. It's a fact, the picture on a can of peaches or a tin of red salmon often looks as good to eat as what's inside—maybe better. You don't even have to have an imagination in a grocery store any more, and the cash register shows the results. Going up!"

"It takes," said the Elevator Man, "a steady hand and a firm resolve to resist the jolly lure of the labels. Experts say the best propaganda the democracies could spring on the people of Russia would be to drop a few thousand department store catalogues among them and let them compare the variety and prices. I think a good follow-up to that would be a newsreel of any Saturday morning in a cash-and-carry. For a lot of those people the gate to Heaven would be a grocery store turnstile. Mafn floor!"

"It's a fact, though," said the Elevator Man, "we shouldn't let fancy packages lead us into buying something we don't want. That way we might not have enough money left for the duller necessities. And it doesn't apply only to food. We shouldn't let a fancy platform package blind us to cold facts. Let's look under the political label and see what's really in the tin. Spuds don't get any fancy wrappings—but we couldn't get along without 'em."

Canada's U.S. Dollar, Gold Reserve At $1,204,200,000

Abbott Informs Commons Total Up From $1,117,100,000 Reported At End Of December

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's reserves of gold and United States dollars reached a total of $1,204,200,000 by Saturday last, an increase of $87,100,000 over the $1,117,100,000 reported at December 31, 1949, Finance Minister Abbott told the Commons Tuesday night in his 1950-51 budget speech.

This represented a substantial increase over the low of $461,000,000 touched in December, 1947, when the government plugged the gold-dollar drain by instituting widespread bans on imports from U.S. dollar areas. Many of those prohibitions since have been relaxed or dropped outright.

Mr. Abbott said this latest increase was accounted for largely by a rise in Canadian balances held by other governments.

WILL BE REDUCED

"To the extent that these balances are abnormally high and will be subsequently reduced, it means that some of our exports in coming months will be paid for out of these balances and will not bring in new receipts of exchange.

"To this extent, our reserves at their current level include the proceeds of some future earnings which have in effect been received in advance."

He noted, too, that the approaching second quarter of the calendar year is the season for heavy transfers of earnings on U.S. investments in Canada. For that reason, he expected the reserves may show a similar decline during the next two or three months.

"However," he added, "I would not, of course, venture to make any prediction in respect to the probable net change in our reserves for the new fiscal year as a whole."

For 1949, preliminary estimates indicate the surplus on international current account totaled approximately $193,000,000. In the capital account, notable features were $120,000,000 to the United Kingdom under the 1946 loan and a "fairly substantial" inflow of capital from the United States for direct investment, chiefly in connection with oil developments in western Canada.

Gold production, which serves to increase the exchange reserves, has been showing a "steady and welcome" increase each year and in 1949 totaled $148,000,000.

Devaluation Aided Trade Of Canada, Says Abbott

OTTAWA (CP)—Devaluation of the Canadian dollar last September, under conditions at present prevailing, has improved Canada's trading position, Finance Minister Abbott said Tuesday night in the fiscal portion of his budget speech.

He felt the currency changes which took place generally last fall should "play a beneficial role in helping to correct the imbalance in the trading relationships between North America and the rest of the world."

At the same time, he emphasized that currency changes of themselves are "no cure for basic problems of maladjustment." They could do little more than provide time for more fundamental measures.

Price adjustments still were going on around the world, but the effect of devaluation on Canadian trade "has already been noticeable and in a satisfactory direction," said Mr. Abbott.

IMPORTS REDUCED

Canadian imports from the United States have been declining for the last four months, despite the relaxation of import controls, while exports have been increasing. For those four months, an adverse balance of trade with the U.S. of nearly $100,000,000 a year ago has been reduced to $15,000,000.

Of trade generally, Mr. Abbott said Canada has been "a little disappointed" in the apparent inability of overseas countries to resume their traditional share of Canada's import market.

"If our overseas friends could get back their traditional share of our import market," he said, "they would be earning an additional $200,000,000 a year with which to balance and eventually expand their consumption of Canadian products."

Canada had taken special measures to help overseas suppliers to overcome difficulties, "but we cannot continue these indefinitely, nor should we convert temporary devices into permanent policies."

RISE AND FALL

Tracing the rise and fall of exports and imports from various countries, Mr. Abbott said:

Canada's exports had fallen from a postwar peak of $3,120,000,000 in the 12-month period ended August, 1949, to about $3,000,000,000 in the 12-month period ended February 28, 1950.

Canada's imports were running at the rate of about $2,750,000,000 compared with $1,500,000,000 in 1946. However, Mr. Abbott said he was not satisfied with the import picture.

'Franking' May End For Govt. Branches

OTTAWA (CP)—Finance Minister Abbott indicated in the Commons Tuesday night the government is thinking of dropping the "franking" privileges by which government departments use the mails free.

In the fiscal portion of his 1950-51 budget speech, he noted that the post office is paying its own way, when wartime increases in letter rates are included, and said he hoped the growing cost of postal services could be covered by charges for these services.

"In due course," he went on, "I would hope we can arrange that it will be charged with all proper expenses of its operations, that it will charge other departments for mail services, and that it will be able to show a modest surplus on a commercial basis of accounting."

Canada Learns Debt Cut To $11,665,000,000

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's net debt, pushed to a peak of $13,421,405,490 by heavy wartime expenditures, has been reduced to $11,665,000,000, Finance Minister Abbott disclosed in his budget speech Tuesday night.

The net debt was a mere $3,152,559,314 at the outbreak of the Second World War in 1939. Heavy wartime expenditures sent it skyrocketing, but four consecutive surpluses since the end of the war have helped to whittle it down.

In the 1949-50 fiscal year ending Friday, it was cut by $111,100,000 compared with a slash of $595,000,000 in the previous year.

Boy Who Slew Father Jailed

PLYMOUTH, Mass. (AP)—Life imprisonment was ordered Tuesday for a 16-year-old "model boy" who pleaded guilty to killing his drunkard father "for the good of the family."

Frances Whorf, a boy scout, fired a bullet into the head of his sleeping parent, Kenneth Whorf, 49, last September.

Within a few hours after the sentence was imposed in Plymouth County Superior Court, Gov. Paul A. Dever said he would study the case.

Official Quits Prices Board

OTTAWA (CP)—William T. Wilson of Ottawa, deputy-chairman of the Prices Board, is resigning March 31, it was announced Tuesday.

Mr. Wilson joined the board in January, 1946, as comptroller, and became deputy chairman in March, 1947. In addition to his duties with the Prices Board he has been the senior official in charge of the day-to-day work of the emergency import control division of the department of finance. Mr. Wilson has also served as a director of two

"I would expect the woods operations next winter to be at a normal level," he said.

"We shall continue to give all the help we can in finding markets for such other commodities as may from time to time find their market upset."

But, he added, the Federal Government cannot and should not attempt to assume responsibility for all regional problems of unemployment. It should be ready, he said, to co-operate with provincial governments and through them with municipalities in solving regional problems that threaten country-wide economic repercussions.

Besides this co-operation, he said, the Federal Government should endeavor to create a favorable climate for healthy economic expansion and development. It should exercise care in planning, timing and placing capital and development expenditures. It should recognize a special responsibility for the promotion and development of basic primary industries and other industries of national significance.

1. During the current year $486,000,000 obtained from various government transactions was used to reduce the outstanding public debt.

2. In the last two years, a fall in Canadian overseas exports of about $300,000,000 has been more than offset by an increase of $500,000,000 in Canadian exports to the United States.

3. Average weekly wages rose about 3 per cent during the year while the cost of living advanced "barely" 1 per cent.

4. The outlook for 1950 seems to be that the volume of employment will increase moderately, but it is possible it may not catch up with growth in total labor supply.

5. Consensus of informed views about the outlook for 1950 is that employment, output and price levels in both Canada and United States will show no great change from 1949.

6. Government revenues remain "remarkably" buoyant despite the successive reductions in tax rates.

7. A new issue of long-term government bonds will be sold to provide for redemption of the First Victory Loan 3 per cent bonds which will mature June 15, 1951, and an issue of 3 per cent bonds sold in 1935 and due to mature June 1, 1955.

Avalanche Of Questions On Hospital Insurance

Objections Raised To Blanket Power To Raise Premiums, Restrict Services

Talk came from all corners of the Legislature Tuesday on proposed amendments to the Hospital Insurance Act.

The C.C.F. demanded reasons why the government failed to act on complaints from its top officer of the service, the former commissioner, Dr. J. M. Hershey, that administration was "not up to par."

Private members joined with the Opposition also in objecting to blanket powers the cabinet was seeking to raise premiums and restrict services under the insurance scheme.

Opposition Leader Harold Winch gained from Premier Byron Johnson the admission that the cabinet was kept in touch with hospital insurance developments, and he asked two questions:

1. "Why didn't the cabinet take steps in the administration of the service to implement recommendations of Dr. Hershey over the opposition of the executive director, Andrew Pitkethley?"

2. "Why was the insurance scheme not given more careful planning before it was implemented?"

LOSSES BLAMED

Part of the tremendous deficits of the insurance service were blamed by the C.C.F. on the "complete irresponsibility" of the government to act on recommendations of Dr. Hershey, who resigned his commission late last year over lack of action on his requests for improvements to the service.

Mr. Winch read correspondence between Dr. Hershey and Health Minister George S. Pearson, in which the retired commissioner stated bluntly the executive director, Mr. Pitkethley, failed to carry out instructions.

"This lack of co-ordination and co-operation, and the resulting antagonism, seriously affected the operation of the service," said Mr. Winch.

The C.C.F. charged also the insurance service was started without any plan; that no help was obtained from outside sources, and that nothing was obtained from previous studies of health and hospital insurance on which the government had spent $241,888 since 1934.

WIDE POWERS

As in debate on legislation authorizing merger of the B.C. police in to the R.C.M.P., the opposition argued at length against "blank cheque" powers the government was seeking.

Many Dates Keep Bob Owens Busy Since Retirement

Robert Owens, former inspector of the B.C. Provincial Police, has had little rest since he retired on Feb. 28.

After his big send-off party on his retirement he went to Courtenay; then to Seattle for a St. Patrick's Day party at the exclusive 101 club. He is the only international member of it.

Last Saturday night Owens attended an entertainment put on by the Soke Community Association. Before 400 people he received a purse and a parchment, making him the first life member of the association.

He said there would be a couple more parties, the next one at Duncan.

"It is a blank cheque on taxation really," said C.C.F. Leader Winch, with reference to amendments giving the cabinet power to set premiums and restrict services.

The people were being given certain services in the realm of hospitalization but they had to pay premiums which amounted to a tax.

So it was taxation by order-in-council the government was seeking.

Maurice Finnelly, Cln.-Similkameen, took the wind out of the sails of the opposition on the "blanket powers" argument.

He pointed at the C.C.F. government in Saskatchewan which had a hospital insurance service. Only last Friday the socialists of the prairie province gave third reading to legislation giving their cabinet power to designate services to be given under the plan, he said.

NO REPLY

There was no reply from the C.C.F.

Rupert Hagan, opposition member for Grand Forks-Greenwood, changed the subject by advocating a better system of supervision of hospitals was needed.

He suggested also the health and welfare portfolio should be given "a minister" who is not over-burdened.

Arthur Turner, C.C.F.-Vancouver East, said expiry dates of insurance premiums should be staggered to halt the year-end rushes, and E. E. Winch, C.C.F.-Burnaby, said all persons on low pensions or incomes should be excused from premium payment with the old-age pensioners.

B. M. MacIntyre, Cln.-Mackenzie, was opposed to the cabinet being given blanket powers. He thought there should be a ceiling on premiums and a basement on services the cabinet might set.

Mrs. Tilly Rolston, Cln.-Vancouver Point Grey, did not cherish the idea of the cabinet being given overwhelming powers on fixing of premiums either.

Ontario To Seek Tax 'Rental' Plan

TORONTO (CP)—Premier Frost introduced two bills in the Ontario Legislature Tuesday to authorize a Dominion-provincial income tax "rental" or "agency" agreement.

The premier said the bills would allow Ontario to enter a tax rental agreement by which the federal government would pay Ontario 5 per cent of the personal income tax collected in the province in return for the right to collect the whole amount.

PARAPLEGICS SQUARE DANCE

EDMONTON (CP)—"Down the centre cutting off six, lady go gee and the gent go haw."

Two gay figures in wheel-chairs moved out of a group of eight and circled towards each other, arms pushing rhythmically as they concentrated on their intricate quadrille.

The "dancers" were men and women paraplegics of Mewburn Veterans' Hospital here.

Their public appearance Tuesday night marked the first exhibition of wheel-chair dancing in Canada. It didn't last long. Ten minutes is about the maximum time a paraplegic can exercise his arm and back muscles without risking over-exertion.

Juneau Man Says Alaska Should Join U.N.

JUNEAU, Alaska (AP)—Peter Wood, Juneau real estate agent, disclosed he had wired Trygve Lie, secretary-general of the United Nations, for information on Alaska's joining the U.N. as a non-self-governing territory.

Wood, who formerly published a monthly newspaper here, said he cabled Lie as follows: "Unless we get statehood this session of the United States Congress, I will consider organizing party to seek separation and create the independent republic of the United States of Alaska through the United Nations."

"We have oil, iron, coal, copper, tin, wood, fish, fur, waterpower, agriculture and gold. We would be one of the richest nations."

"If this seems absurd, so does taxation without representation."

"Request your refer this to committee for admission of non-self-governing territories and forward details necessary to a formal petition."

Tractors on British farms increased from 50,000 in 1939 to 250,000 in 1949.

THE HOME GARDEN

Interest Increases In Dwarf Fruit Trees

JACK G. BEASTALL

While interest in dwarf fruit trees is rapidly increasing, there is considerable misunderstanding of this subject among home gardeners.

The belief is quite common that you purchase any tree marked "dwarf," plant it, pick luscious fruit two years later, and that six feet will be its maximum height. Unless you know your trees this may not be so, and a little information on how fruit trees are dwarfed will explain why.

Originally dwarf trees were obtained by practicing severe repressive pruning on the top growth of a standard tree, together with restriction of root run. Today the matter is approached from a different angle.

LIMITED TOP GROWTH

Forms of apples are known which develop shallow fibrous root systems, devoid of the deep anchor roots of the ordinary apple seedling. These fibrous roots are unable to supply sufficient food to support large top growth. It follows, therefore, that if a bud, or a graft, of a standard variety is united with such a rootstock, the resultant top growth will be limited.

It has been determined that apples may be dwarfed by using the French Paradise, or the English Doucin variety of apples for understocks.

For pears, quince is used, although some varieties of pears will not unite with the quince stock. In such cases a pear which will unite is budded to the united piece. This requires time and labor and explains the higher price of some varieties of dwarf pears.

DWARFING EFFECT

Mahaleb cherry stock has a dwarfing effect on other cherries, while the Sand cherries and the St. Julian Damson have the same effect on plums. The peach, apricot, and nectarine are dwarfed when grown on the Myrobalan plum stock.

The dwarf stocks themselves, however, are variable and the East Malling Research Station, England, has classified them into types numbered from I to XVI.

COACHES TO MEET

Two-Minute Cage Rule Destined For Discard

NEW YORK (UP)—Firmly convinced that basketball's much-maligned two-minute rule must be discarded, the nation's college coaches set out today to tackle the problem of "where do we go from here?"

That the present "game-end foul rule" was headed for the scrap-heap was certain. Coach Paul Hinkle of Butler, chairman of the National Coaches Association's rules committee, disclosed yesterday that coaches have voted in answer to a questionnaire, 204 to 10, that it is unsatisfactory.

The big task now confronting the coaches as they wound up their annual three-day meeting was to find an adequate substitute rule for curbing excessive fouls in the late minutes of games.

The two-minute rule, which provides that a team fouled during the last two minutes of play retains possession of the ball at mid-court whether the ensuing fouls are made or missed, was modified or abandoned in virtually every section of the country before the 1949-50 season was half over.

Whatever recommendations the coaches agree upon today must be submitted to the national basketball rules committee for approval.

The two-minute rule was passed by the national rules committee last year after the coaches decided that something be done about curbing last-minute fouling but could not arrive at a specific recommendation.

'Young Canada' Night At Arena Thursday

First annual "Young Canada Night" will be held at the Memorial Arena Thursday commencing at 7.

Following the policy set by prairie and eastern Canadian groups, the Victoria Minor Hockey Association will sponsor the event for the first time in the city.

A total of 25 prizes, donated by city merchants, will be presented to boys and girls attending the second game of the two-game total-point series for the Vancouver Island bantam hockey championship between the Victoria All-Stars and Nanaimo. The up-landers hold a one-goal edge in the series to date as a result of their 2 to 1 win in the opening tussle.

Opening the lengthy program will be the fourth game of the best-of-five finals for the city juvenile ice title between Senators and Bears. Latter hold a 2 to 1 edge in the series to date. One tilt ended in a dead lock. Game time is 7.

Fancy skating and team relay races will be added as "extras." Cups and most valuable player awards for the season will also be presented.

FIRST LACROSSE WORKOUT FOR SHAMROCKS TONIGHT

With a sidelong glance, figuratively speaking, at the 200-odd-foot length of the playing surface of the Memorial Arena, Arnold Ferguson, coach of the embryo Victoria Shamrocks, will put hopefuls for a spot on the local Intercollegiate Lacrosse League entry through their first official workout tonight.

The arena box is considerably larger than the outdoor surface at Stevenson Park where the game has been played for the past four years, and conditioning will be an essential feature in training sessions.

Tonight's workout will be at the Armories at 6:45. Physical training strip should be worn.

Doug Adam Hero Of Tacoma Win

Doug Adam, the left-winger who had a brief tryout with the New York Rangers in the N.H.L. and then returned to his Tacoma Rockets in time to set a new goal-scoring mark in the Pacific Coast Hockey League, was the fair-haired boy for Rocket coach Muzz Patrick last night.

The Rockets, down two games to one in their best-of-five playoff semifinal with Vancouver Canucks for the northern division title, came back last night to edge the Canucks 2 to 1 and square the series.

Adam whipped the rubber past goalie Lucien Dechene after 10 minutes and five seconds of overtime.

BALLANCE SCORES

After a scoreless first frame, Vancouver took the lead early in the second when Bobby Ballance blasted home Scotty McPherson's pass. Third period was a minute and a half old when Mel Read tied it up.

In the southern section round-robin series, San Diego Skyhawks qualified to meet Los Angeles Monarchs in the final for the title and the right to tackle the winner of the northern playoff.

The Skyhawks downed Los Angeles, 8 to 6, last night. The two clubs will meet for the title later this week.

Summary follows:

TACOMA 2, VANCOUVER 1
First Period—No scoring. Penalties: Egan, 10; Pennington, 12; Pennington, 12; Pennington, 12.
Second Period—1. Vancouver, Ballance (McPherson), 1:22. Penalties: Dechene, 10; Dechene, 10; Dechene, 10.

Wheat Kings Down Bruins In Opener

BRANDON, Man. (UP)—Brandon Wheat Kings held a one-goal lead today in their best-of-seven Manitoba Thunder Bay junior hockey championship series with Port Arthur Bruins. The Manitoba champions trounced the Bruins 8 to 2 here last night in the first game of the playoff series. The second contest is to be played at Brandon tomorrow night.

FIVE CLUBS ENTER SOFTBALL CIRCUIT

60-Game Schedule To Open April 30 With Double Bill; Ernie Field Renamed President

Douglas' Tire, B.C. Forest Products, Butler Brothers, Chinese Students and Bluebird Cabs will vie for the honors in the 1950 senior A men's softball loop.

The five clubs were accepted as entries at the annual meeting of the circuit held last night. Games will be scheduled at upper Central Park on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Friday.

Saturday and Sunday will be left open for postponed and exhibition tilts.

The planned 60-game schedule will open April 30 with a double-header.

Proposal by Staff Tenning that the loop inaugurate an injured players' fund was adopted by loop officials. The sum of $2 will be deducted from each gate. In addition to the annual benefit game, the sum is expected to raise the fund to almost $200 this year.

Ernie Field was re-elected president of the league. Mike Leachman was elected secretary-treasurer, succeeding Walt Summerfeldt. Rom Knott was named vice-president.

PITCHING GOOD
About the best that can be said for the pitching staff is that it has possibilities. It isn't good enough to win a pennant.

Sheldon Jones, who posted a 15-12 record last year, reported in fine shape and should anchor the staff. Larry Jensen 15-16; Dave Koslo 11-14, with the lowest earned-run mark in the league, and Monty Kennedy 12-14, round out the club's "big four."

Grudge Fight Looms Over Howe's Injury

Detroit Player Still In Dangerous Condition

DETROIT, Mich. (UP)—Gordie Howe of the Detroit Red Wings was reported in "dangerous" condition today with a possible skull fracture received in the opening game of the Stanley Cup playoffs.

Howe, third-ranking National Hockey League scorer, underwent a 90-minute brain operation shortly after midnight.

Doctors said Howe's skull may have been fractured when Capt. Ted Kennedy of the Toronto Maple Leafs slammed him into the boards in the third period of last night's first semifinal playoff game. The Leafs won, 5 to 0.

Detroit players accused Kennedy of cracking Howe in the face with the butt end of his stick, but the Toronto centre said he would "take an oath that to the best of my knowledge my stick never touched Howe."

The Red Wing forward also had a broken nose and cheekbone, in addition to an eye injury.

Howe, who will be 22 Friday, slumped bleeding to the ice and was carried from Olympic Stadium on a stretcher. He was taken to Harper Hospital in an ambulance after preliminary examination in the Wing dressing room.

Dr. Frederick Schreiber, Detroit brain specialist, performed the surgery early today. He was assisted by Dr. C. L. Tomsu, the Red Wing physician, who said additional X-rays would be necessary to determine if Howe's skull was fractured.

Howe was semi-conscious after arrival at the hospital.

The Red Wings had no hope that he could return for the remaining playoff games. His loss meant that coach Tommy Ivan must find a substitute for the famed line of Sid Abel, Ted Lindsay and Howe which carried the Wings to their second straight N.H.L. championship. The next Detroit-Toronto game will be played here tomorrow night.

KENNEDY TARGET

Abel, who was penalized for slashing Kennedy on a faceoff immediately after Howe was carried from the ice, asked "how can he say he didn't hit Gordie?"

Kennedy gave this account of the incident:

"I had the puck right about centre ice when I saw (Leaf forward) Sid Smith ahead of me. I passed to him and saw Howe coming in to check me. I stepped aside and Howe crashed into the boards."

"I'll take an oath that to the best of my knowledge my stick never touched Howe. I'd never want to see a thing like that happen to anyone. I skated over to the Detroit bench and told Ivan that."

BUTT END

"If he didn't hit Howe with his stick, why did he skate over and apologize?" Ivan asked. "I'm not saying it was deliberate, but it was a check made with the butt end of Kennedy's stick."

Manager Conn Smythe of Toronto said he had a "perfect view of the play, although it happened on the other side of the ice from where I was sitting."

"Kennedy's stick never touched Howe," Smythe said. "Jack Stewart (a Detroit defenceman) crashed into him after he hit the boards."

Summary follows:

TORONTO 5, DETROIT 0
First Period—No scoring. Penalties: Fogelin, Kennedy, MacNeil, Patrick, Howe, MacNeil, Morrison (interchangeable and minor), Lindsay.
Second Period—1. Toronto, Kulkay (Barlow, Bentley), 10:22. Toronto, Barlow (Kennedy, Smith), 8:49. 2. Toronto, McCracken (Lindsay), 13:28. Penalties: MacNeil (major), Pavolin (minor), Lindsay, MacNeil, Jutta (major), Howe (major), Bentley.
Third Period—4. Toronto, Gardner (MacNeil, Thomson), 2:29. 5. Toronto, Kulkay (Thompson, Bentley), 11:17. Penalties: Abel, Barlow, Edmundick, Black, Stewart.

Hard-working member of the Fishermen's Co-op ice squad, Conlie McBeth will be working along the right boards tonight when his squad tackles the Navy in the second game of the best-of-five finals for the Cross Cup, emblematic of the Commercial hockey city championship at the Memorial Arena at 8:30. McBeth was one of the key players responsible for the Cop-op's first win of the series Monday. He scored three goals and set up Eddie Varga who scored the winner after 11 minutes of overtime.

IT'S MY VIEW

By BILL WALKER

"It's a bleak night," the man at the corner store said as he prepared to close up shop for the night and head for the Commercial Hockey League playoff. "I sure hope this weather changes pretty soon. It's going to be awfully cold out at the ball park if this keeps up." Yes, and it's not much warmer up at Kamloops where the A's start spring training this week. The boys from California with their sun tans and sports shirts will feel the cold much more than the lads from the northwest and there's bound to be a few sore arms unless things take a turn for the better.

However, there's one good aspect of training up in Canada. The players will become acclimatized to our weather sooner this way than if they came from the sunny clime of California into what Joe Blankenship describes as an alternating "luke warm and cold" climate after basking in the sun all day at spring training.

They Come Back For More

Three thousand fans, night after night, can't be wrong. The Commercial Hockey League has what it takes to pack 'em in. You can't deny it. The games are crowd-pleasers. There's not the finesse of the pros out there on the ice but the players are giving their best and they're out to win. What more can one ask?

Eddie Varga's performance Monday night must rank as the outstanding individual feat of the season. Shadowed by two men most of the game Varga was the key figure in the game and he, more than anyone else, was instrumental in giving the Fishermen victory.

Series Could Go The Limit

Regardless of what happens in the remaining games of the series the final outcome must be decided by next Thursday night. This would mean a sixth game if the series goes that far. And it is possible as games will end after 20 minutes of overtime regardless of the score. However, if a sixth game is necessary, it will be played Thursday night and it will be played to a finish.

Few fans hold the opinion that the series won't go the limit of five games. Navy supporters point to the fact the sailors dropped the first game of the semifinal series to Douglas Tire, then came back to win two straight games. Fishermen probably have the best first string aggregation but Navy appears to have more depth and this may be the deciding factor in a grueling series such as this. However, with Varga and McBeth out there sniping for the Co-ops, it would be foolhardy to try and pick a winner. The teams are too evenly matched.

Boxing Suffers Up-Island

James Audain, secretary of the Vancouver Island Boxing Association, reports that boxing appears to have suffered a relapse up-island. Only one entry has been received from that sector for the Island Golden Gloves championship. Last year there were a number of fighters, especially from Alberni, in the tournament. On formation of the island association last spring hopes were held high for a revival of the sport in that area. But such has not been the case.

Coach Tommy Burgess of the Esquimalt Club has been the most active man in respect to keeping the sport alive in the city and his club tops the list of entries for the third annual event. No other club on the island can approach this effort and Burgess is to be commended for his work in this regard.

CLEVELAND (AP) — Middleweight champion Jake LaMotta scored a technical knockout over Chuck Hunter at 59 seconds of the sixth round last night after administering a severe beating to the Cleveland fighter in a scheduled 10-round, non-title bout. LaMotta weighed 168½ to 168½ for Hunter.

Badly battered, Hunter had been felled for a five count earlier in the round before referee Jackie Davis stopped the fight. A crowd of 8,181 paid $36,786 to see the bout.

WIFE DORA BEST COACH

Once Thought Navy's Norm Jones Would Never Play Hockey Again

By TERRY SHAW

It was Saturday night, and, well... you know what it's like getting up early Sunday morning.

However, the Saturday night excuse did not hold water for Petty Officer Norman Jones of the Royal Canadian Navy.

Jones, who is known to every hockey enthusiast in the city as the starry goalkeeper for the Navy's Commercial Hockey League entry, was complaining to his wife, Dora, about getting up in time for his club's 7 a.m. workout Sunday morning.

"Think I'll skip it," he said. "Listen," she retorted, "if anyone needs the practice, it certainly is you. You'll be at that practice. I'm setting the alarm so you'll have plenty of time to get there."

That was final. Norm attended the workout.

BEST COACH

No, he isn't the type of a fellow who lets his wife run his life, but he does know that she is his best coach on the subject of kicking pucks out of the net.

Dora has a seat immediately behind her husband each night the Navy Club turns out, and throughout the game, she shouts suggestions to her 29-year-old husband, who is recognized as the outstanding goalkeeper in the Commercial loop.

But there is another drama connected with the early days of Norm's hockey experience, a story that the majority of the hockey fans who shout encouragement in his direction know nothing about.

Three years ago while he was guarding the citadel for the Swift Current Legion at a small town on the prairies called Gull Lake, Jones was banged into the goalpost by an over-enthusiastic opposing forward.

FRACTURED SKULL
Suffering from a fractured skull, Jones was rushed to the hospital where he remained unconscious for nine days.

For two weeks, doctors had practically given up all hope of his recovery, and certainly his ever playing hockey again. But Norm was not the kind of a man to give up, though.

Suddenly taking a turn for the better, he recovered completely. And if anyone has any doubts he can't play hockey, a trip to the Memorial Arena will supply the answer.

That's the reason he always wears a head-protector while participating in his favorite sport. Norm broke into the game in 1937 in his native Swift Current,

Joe Walcott Claims Title

CAMDEN, N.J. (AP) — Jersey Joe Walcott, through his manager, Felix "Doc" Goetz, Tuesday claimed the world heavyweight boxing title providing Erard Charles is unable to fight again.

Charles, recognized by the National Boxing Association as champion, was forced to cancel his title bout with Freddie Beshore because of an injury.

Bocchicchio said he is claiming the title in belief that Joe Louis will remain in retirement and that Charles has suffered an injury to a heart muscle which also may force him into permanent retirement.

COAST BASEBALL FAILS TO IMPRESS CHANDLER

Teams Get Off To Weirdest Opening-Day Play In Years

Whoever is booming the Pacific Coast League as the "third" major league should have kept baseball commissioner A. B. (Happy) Chandler away from that opener at Oakland.

Chandler sat with some amazement among 12,397 fans last night and saw eight pitchers yield 25 hits as the Oaks staggered to a 15 to 11 win over Seattle. The game had everything but good pitching. There were seven errors, 14 walks and two home runs, both by Oakland outfielder Roy Weatherly. It was the commissioner's first P.C.L. opener.

In other openers, the champion Hollywoods lost a 4 to 3 10-inning decision to Portland; Los Angeles beat Sacramento 13 to 11 after three hours and 25 minutes of the gothic horseplay this side of a burlesque show and San Francisco lost its first opening day game in 11 years to San Diego 5 to 4.

Seattle trailed the Oaks 9 to 2 as the clubs entered the third inning, but with two out the Rainiers caught fire to push over nine runs and take an 11 to 9 lead. That, however, was where the Seattle attack began and ended. Oakland popped right back and moved in front to stay.

The crowd of 5,738 was disappointed at Hollywood but the game itself was not. The Stars tied the game up in the ninth with a play that only could come out of Hollywood. Little Bob Bundy led off with a double. Eddie Sauer sacrificed him to third. Frankie Kelleher flied to left and Bundy hit for home after the catch.

Coming in head first, he was knocked cold sliding into catcher Jimmy Gladd of Portland. Gladd scrambled for the ball as Bundy lay there inert-short of the plate. Murray Franklin, the next Hollywood batter, quickly reached down and put Bundy's motionless hand on the plate before Gladd tagged him.

Portland won in the 10th with two unearned runs. Beaver pitchers Lyman Linde and Bill Fleming combined to hold the Stars to four hits.

At Sacramento, in the only day game, the Angels worked over seven Solon pitchers for 15 hits while using four themselves. The hometowners outlived the Angels 18 to 14 but walked the game away with 16 passes. Joe Marty, Sacramento outfielder, hit four hits in five trips, including a homer and two doubles. The crowd was 12,357.

Some 10,000 San Diego fans saw the Padres take advantage of wildness on the part of San Francisco pitchers. Cliff Melton, the Seals starting pitcher, had trouble locating the plate, issuing four walks in the first inning. His relief, Elmer Singleton, gave up three passes and a double in the sixth which gave the Padres two runs and the win.

Neil Sheridan slammed a two-run homer for the Seals in the third.

LIGHT WORKOUT

The Navy football squad was running through a lengthy spring drill the other day and the athletes greeted the arrival of darkness with mixed emotions—they growled a bit because they couldn't see the ball, but welcomed anything that would put an end to the toll... then coach Eddie Erdelatz signalled to have the floodlights turned on... and as they began to glow, a disgruntled footballer howled, "Here comes the sun up again. Now he can really go to work."

2 Pilots Hold Air Records

LONDON (CP)—Two British European Airways pilots have 1,000,000-mile flight records, the corporation has announced.

Capt. Geoffrey T. Greenhalgh, its flight captain at Liverpool airport, is one. Aged 43, he has been flying internal British

The other is Capt. E. W. Jordan, whose "beat" for years has been the London-Channel Islands run.

LONDON (CP)—An Irishman known in 12 countries as a dirt track ace and stunt driver is planning to go after the world's most dangerous record—the delayed-drop parachute jump.

He's Reg Kavanagh, who at one time or another has broken every bone in his body. He's a member of a film crash squad and has just completed practice parachute jumping in the south of France.

Kavanagh plans to try for the unofficial delayed jump at 34,000 feet now held by a Russian. To beat it he proposes to jump from 40,000 feet and hurtle almost seven miles through the air before pulling the rip-cord.

Now 40, Kavanagh has been parachute jumping since he was 16 and claims to have made more than 3,500 descents.

New Handicraft Centres Planned

OTTAWA (BUP)—Visitors to the Quebec Handicraft Exhibition staged at the Chateau Laurier Hotel believe Quebec Province may soon have a number of "Greenwich Village" communities.

A group of artists and handicraft enthusiasts have already built one village community in Montreal, they said, though they added hastily it did not have the notoriety of the New York village.

Pointe au Pic, near Murray Bay, Quebec, and St. Jean Port Joli were two other centres where village communities might grow up, they said. Pointe au Pic was a holiday spot for many wealthy people from all parts of North America.

St. Jean Port Joli was made famous by the Bourgault brothers, world-famous wood carvers.

Mining Men Active At Lake Athabaska

LAC LA RONGE, Sask. (CP)—Stoney Rapids, a settlement of 100 at the eastern tip of Lake Athabaska, is becoming a centre of northland activity.

The community, which owes its existence mostly to the fur trade and a Hudson's Bay Company post, has caught the attention of mining companies. Now mining men are exploring and staking claims at a fast pace, says Oliver Shaw, farthest-north field officer with the provincial resources department.

Mr. Shaw said housewives find Stoney Rapids prices tough: Bacon at $1.25 a pound, coffee at $1.00 a pound, and potatoes at 15 cents a pound. Although the area is wooded, a cord of firewood has been costing $14 because the only transportation was by dog-sled.

The settlement is largely dependent on caribou for food and clothing.

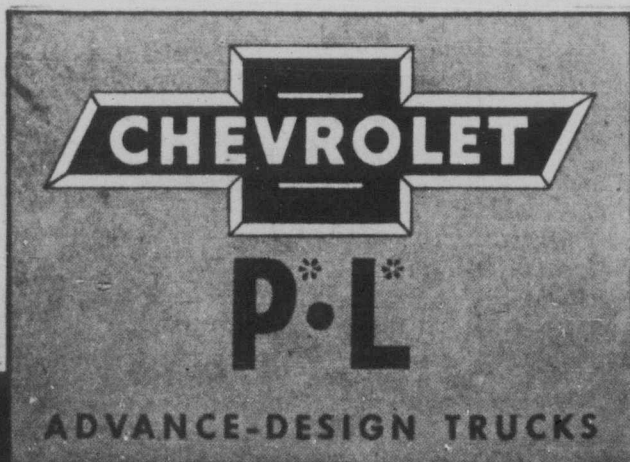

Hawaii, the crossroads of the Pacific, consists of 20 islands, of which nine are inhabited.

How Fliers Hit Hope Simpson Great Puzzle For Labrador Body

By JOE MACSWEEN

PORT HOPE SIMPSON, Labrador (CP)—Boys in Labrador have more than ordinary interest in aviation and airmen.

Eight-year-old Piercey Russell, who lives in this village which is winter-bound for months is no exception. Fliers are his heroes and he talked enthusiastically about them when this reporter met him on one of a number of mail and mercy trips with a bush pilot.

Here is what Piercey had to say:

There's just one thing I want to be when I grow up and that's one of them bush pilots, and you needn't tell me any different.

AS SNOW FALLS

Suffrin! You must've seen them when they come down in a snowstorm and pitch on the harbor here or on the pond wherever you live. Suffrin! There ain't anybody like them or my name ain't Piercey Russell.

Two of them just flew away now and I'm surer than ever I was about what I want to be although I'm only eight years old and my whole family says unless I study more I'm going to be stupid.

The way those bush pilots showed up from Henley Harbor and Cartwright at nearly the same time was enough to make you wonder because you could hardly even see across the harbor from the ground.

But they pitched easy and the postmaster and everybody came running. Even the dogs got excited and started to bark because the mail plane is the big thing here every month.

The pilots came out walkin' diffrent to anybody else with their big boots and not a bit scared. They just talked to one another mostly. Suffrin! What I wouldn't give to be like them.

LAST PLACE

When they go to wing I always run away to a hill by myself to watch becuz I can feel myself lift too. Today one pilot looked over and saw me there when he was turning in the air and he waved. He didn't pay any attention to any other kids but me.

What is always puzzlin' me is how they ever find this place because my old sister—she's 28 if she's a day—says we live in one of the last places God made. But that just shows she's stupid and only worried because there ain't many people. I told her last night lots of people are only silly codfish heads anyway and that's true although I remit I was thinking of that silly codfish head next door at the time.

But after those pilots pitched today they walked over to each other and one looked out at the harbor and said:

"Nice smooth surface, ain't it?"

Land Suffrin! I wish my sister could've heard that—the silly codfish head.

'G' Suits Aid Pilots Against Blackouts

LONDON (CP)—High speed flying can change the temperament and personality of a pilot, says Dr. E. T. O. Slater, writing in the Journal of the British Interplanetary Society.

Dr. Slater says he believes pilots who have been through a number of blackouts while flying "begin to suffer mentally." He likens the effect to that seen in a patient after a head injury or in an epileptic patient who has had many fits.

In the past the blackout has been chiefly observed in turning movements of the plane—in coming out of a dive, for instance, or making small-radius turns.

But in the high-speed planes of the present day such as the faster-than-sound fighters, blackout effect now is making itself felt "in simple acceleration along a straight path, as in rapidly accelerating jet-propelled aircraft."

The wearing of "G" suits, which are pressurized and prevent blood flowing from the brain area, enable higher speed accelerations to be sustained without blackout.

Black Market At Niger Handles Human Flesh

Bodies Being Trafficked To Cannibals 'For A Price' In West Africa Colony

ONITSHA, Nigeria (Reuter)—A grim black market in human flesh is reported in this Niger River port. It is said to be operating secretly through the mud-hut villages of the Ibo tribe of Owerri.

The reports are not confirmed by police, always vigilant for cases of cannibalism, but it is acknowledged that the district concerned once harbored most of eastern Nigeria's cannibals.

Now it is believed almost impossible for a white man to check up on any trafficking in human flesh in the dense west African bush.

Realizing that British police will act immediately on any suspicion of a revival of a once-prevalent grim Nigerian custom, the traffickers are believed—if operating at all—to be working in the greatest secrecy and possibly with the protection of African juju witchcraft rites that would terrify likely informers into silence.

NOMADS ARE VICTIMS

Victims are thought likely to be nomads or tired travelers from the north who come down Nigeria's steeply-graded eastern railroad line or along dusty roads, with odd wares or cattle for sale. They are chosen because their disappearance would not be reported to the police and their whereabouts normally difficult to trace.

Some officials believe cannibalism in Nigeria has had an economic basis. Known cases, they say, have happened mainly in districts where there has been a shortage of meat.

But meat is not scarce in Onitsha district now.

In one respect, they say, the business of cannibalism resembles the black market in automobiles in some countries—a body can be produced if the money is available.

But it is not always done merely for money.

Some authorities say that boasting was formerly one of the principal elements in cannibalism practiced by the Ibo tribesmen of the Onitsha district.

With the eventual development of proper communications, Britons say, any vestige of the practice still lurking among the tribes will become impossible without the law catching up with Nigeria's last cannibals.

Divers Plug Lake Bottom

AUCKLAND, N.Z. (UP)—One of New Zealand's oddest jobs is now being tackled. Lake Waikaremoana is leaking, and a team of divers and engineers is hard at work plugging up its bottom.

The lake is one of the main hydro-electric supplies of New Zealand's north island.

So far 40 per cent of the leakage has been stopped by pouring stones, rubble and sand into the larger cracks. The work is made dangerous by the strong current into these holes which could easily suck a diver down.

It is hoped to save 70 per cent of the water loss and send it to the power house instead.

Driver Travels Far Testing Tires

BIRMINGHAM, Eng. (CP)—Every day in his five-day working week, Arthur Atkins drives a car from Birmingham to London, has a bite of lunch, then drives all the way back to Birmingham.

He has been doing it week after week for the last 10 years. Arthur, aged 52, is a tire-test driver for a well-known rubber company. His job is to give tires the wear-and-tear they would receive at the hands of an average motorist, under normal road conditions.

A Londoner, he started tire-testing in 1920 and has since covered 1,500,000 miles, equivalent to 60 times round the world. "At present I'm doing about 60,000 miles a year," he said.

DILEMMA FOR WESTERN ZONE

Germans Rebuilding Speedily
But Squalor Seen With LuxuryBy LEON DENNEN
NEA Special Correspondent

FRANKFURT—West Germany is being rebuilt at breath-taking pace. Modern buildings stand today where there were ruins eight months ago. Construction is in progress everywhere, which cannot be said of other western European countries.

In place of the old hastily improvised shacks offering rummage for sale, there are now brilliantly illuminated stores stocked with luxuries made in Germany or imported from other nations, but not easily available elsewhere on the continent.

A tour of western zones furnished convincing proof that despite Allied bombings during World War II German industry is still the most modern and best equipped in Europe. Industrial progress already overshadows that of France. An American occupation official told me it could outstrip all of western Europe in a few years.

"RUIN" FICTION

Thus the supposed "ruin" of the nation's industrial plant could prove as complete a fiction this time as it was after World War I.

To be sure, reparations paid to Russia and others have slashed Germany's potential below what it might have been. Until a few months ago the dismantling program was proceeding apace. But then the Allied Commission for Germany agreed to halt the tearing down of all non-war factories. Only "real armament plants" were left on the blacklist.

At the turn of the year, Eric Noelting, economics minister of the North Rhine-Westphalian state government, issued a statement asserting that every dismantled factory in the Ruhr area except armament works was being restored to operation.

BUSY SCENES

As a result of this decision and the continuing Marshall Plan assistance, German cities such as Munich, Frankfurt, Stuttgart and Dusseldorf are booming. And they're rife with profiteering, corruption, gangsterism and prostitution.

Yet, all the hustle and bustle is to a large extent artificial. German workers generally are unable to buy the luxuries piled high in the shops. And much of the nation's production is in the heavy goods category which must be unloaded for export—steel and iron products, for example.

So, hand in hand with visible luxury goes squalor. West Germany remains—as the old united Germany always was—a country with an unhealthy economy. Output is great but the working man can't partake of its benefits. The footing is narrow and dangerous.

Only the industrialists, the currency black market operators, Allied occupation personnel and ex-Nazi bigwigs can take advantage of Germany's new flush of prosperity. The mass of the people are disgruntled window shoppers.

Unemployment, now nearing 1,750,000, has soared since 1948 and is still rising. The never-ending influx of refugees from the east goes on. The present total of some 8,000,000 is an impossible economic load for the West German republic to bear.

In 1933 I saw Hitler's rise to power. It was from the ranks of the underpaid white collar workers, unemployed and hungry youngsters that his first storm troopers came.

How long will it be before this new generation of the disgruntled, the hungry and the unemployed will be ready to follow another demagogue with the zeal of a Hitler? To them democracy is little more than a vague foreign word identified with fast-living occupation soldiers.

Belgium Finds
Export Fields
Narrowing

BRUSSELS (AP)—Belgium, which escaped the war with relatively little damage to her production machine and was the first European country to hit the postwar prosperity trail, now is scrambling fearfully along the canyon rim of depression.

Belgium's head start in post-war recovery gave her several relatively prosperous years but now, nearly five years after the end of the war in Europe, other countries are catching up and cutting into markets which the Belgians worked with profit.

Everywhere businessmen complain: "Business is bad." One worker out of every eight is officially listed as unemployed. Industrialists in the hard-hit metal-working factories have forsaken some of the ramparts of private enterprise and beg the government to do something to revive their business.

"The government should rise to the occasion and put everything into an all-out effort," says Fehrmmental, the federation of the metal working industries.

It's cries of help mainly concern flagging export markets, but it offers no specific detailed ideas for government help.

Target Of Communist Strikes

Here is the French aircraft carrier Dixmude starting a voyage to France from Norfolk, Va., with a cargo of 48 U.S. fighter and bomber planes, the first shipment in the program to rearm western Europe. It was the voyages of this and other vessels that Communists seized upon to call strikes earlier this week at almost all the chief ports of France, causing armed guards to be called out.

Pigeons Become Food For Falcons

MONTREAL (BUP)—Peregrine falcons find the towering Sun Life Building here an ideal home, with an adequate food supply on their doorstep, according to Paul Scott, zoology lecturer at McGill University. They live off the hordes of pigeons that swarm to Dominion Square below, which in turn are fed by tourists.

Solicitors Not To Get Wigs

LONDON (CP)—The Law Society has turned down a suggestion that solicitors be allowed to wear wigs in court.

At present wigs are worn by barristers, the senior grade of British lawyer.

D. Napley, a solicitor, said wigs put barristers at an advantage in magistrates' courts when opposing counsel is a wigless solicitor.

He said frequently losing clients blamed the wigless advocate, saying: "I'll get a proper solicitor next time."

Stanley Moore, opposing the proposal, said wigs and gowns are a lot of nonsense and an unnecessary expense. He urged that solicitors look to the future rather than the past.

THE DOCTOR SAYS

Measles More Deadly Than Most Realize

By EDWIN F. JORDAN, M.D.

Measles is an extremely common disease and is mild in most cases, but there are enough serious complications to make it more of a danger than most people realize. Some people are so convinced that their children should have measles early and get it out of the way that they deliberately expose their youngsters to others who have the disease.

Measles is caused by a virus; once in a while this virus attacks the nervous system and causes most serious complications. It also weakens the body so that broncho-pneumonia or bronchitis may set in and too often results in serious long-term difficulties with the lungs. When measles does develop, therefore, precautions should be taken to lessen the risk of complications.

Bed rest until the acute stage of the disease is over should be enforced, as many of the serious complications come from letting the victim out of bed too early. Plenty of fluids should be given and easily digested foods.

EYES SENSITIVE

The eyes are sensitive to light so that reading and eye strain should be avoided. Often it is well to have the shades in the sick room partially drawn. Tepid baths are helpful in preventing itching and in soothing the skin; constipation is common and should be corrected.

The first symptoms of measles develop about two weeks after exposure to a patient who has been ill. Since during the first three or four days of the disease the symptoms resemble those of an ordinary cold with slight fever, many youngsters expose others without knowing that they have measles at all.

The diagnosis of measles is often difficult at first. During the time when there is much measles in the community, youngsters who develop symptoms of a slight cold with fever should be kept at home and away from their playmates. This will help to prevent the spread of the disease to others.

The fever at first is slight but goes up gradually. A slight cough is likely to be present and this tends to become gradually worse. The rash which begins to develop in a few days usually comes first on the forehead and behind the ears. From here it spreads rapidly over the neck, trunk and down the limbs and is usually fully developed in two or three days. Fading of the rash starts in another two or three days.

SERUM USED

Those who are exposed to measles can be prevented from developing a severe attack by an injection either of serum from a person who is convalescing from measles or by a substance called human immune globulin. Both will usually prevent the development of the disease if given in time or make it milder.

It should be more generally realized that year in and year out measles causes more deaths than the dread polio.

Atlantic Pact Meet Set For London In May

WASHINGTON (AP)—State Secretary Dean Acheson has agreed to meet with the Foreign Ministers of Britain and 10 other Atlantic Pact countries in London "about the middle of May."

A State Department spokesman said Acheson also will meet separately at that time with Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin and Foreign Minister Robert Schuman of France.

Press officer Michael McDermott told reporters a definite date for both meetings had not yet been set. Other officials said they understood the Big Three foreign ministers will meet May 9 in London.

Population Of U.S. 150,388,000

WASHINGTON (AP)—The census bureau Tuesday estimated the population of the United States at 150,388,000 as of Feb. 1.

Census experts expect the 1950 census, which will start Saturday, will show a population of 150,500,000 to 151,000,000.

The estimate for Feb. 1 excludes 420,000 Americans serving in the armed forces overseas.

RICKEY SUCCESSFUL

Speed Prime Requisite In New Baseball Trend

By HARRY GRAYSON
NEW YORK—Branch Rickey built the Cardinal organization with speed and has the Dodgers on top with the same prescription.

The first thing the president of the Brooklyn club looks for in a young prospect is ability to get over ground in a hurry.

The arm comes next.

The kid will quickly eliminate himself if he can't hit, so why clutter up the place with a lot of fellows who can't move and throw?

The best pitching and the best hitting is no longer enough.

Boston fans will testify to that after what happened to the Red Sox the past two campaigns.

Success in baseball spells trends, so the 1950s will belong to the swifties.

This is to be especially true in the National League, where base-running and the one run is stressed to a much greater extent than in the American.

OTT GOT GATE

Mel Ott went out after the Giants beited no fewer than 221 home runs, yet wound up no higher than fourth in 1947. The Polo Grounders were rapidly getting nowhere in particular when Leo Durocher was imported in mid-season of '48, and the new pattern was cut when The Lip moved in.

Manager Durocher's kind of a ball club will lead off with the leg work of Thomson, Lockman, Dark and Thompson.

The Braves would appear to be adopting the old Giant methods in acquiring Sid Gordon and Marshall to join Elliott and Holmes, men who can't run a lick.

The Boston outfit has Earl Torgeson and another two or three who can move, however, and the purchase of Sam Jethroe from Montreal is strong evidence that Billy Southworth also has an eye on the speedometer. All Lead-Off Man Jethroe did was steal 89 bases in the International with opposing managers deliberately walking pitchers to head him off.

DODGERS HAVE IT

Brooklyn will continue to ramble with Robinson, Reese and Snider showing the way. The Cardinals do it from memory with Schoendienst, Diering, Musial and Slaughter. The

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

Without Colman—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go
The liver should pour out about 2 pints of bile into your digestive tract every day. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food may not digest. It may just decay in the digestive tract. Then the toxins up your stomach. You get constipated. You feel sour, and the bile backs up.

Led by Senate G.O.P. leader Kenneth S. Wherry, they argued that a Supreme Court decision on such a contempt citation would determine once and for all whether the executive has the legal power to defy the Congress.

But there was little if any chance that the Senate would heed their demands. It was pointed out that the Democratic majority could block such a move if it ever reached the floor.

A senate foreign relations subcommittee issued the subpoenas Tuesday after Mr. Truman flatly refused to permit its investigators to have access to government loyalty files.

The orders will be delivered by the Senate Sergeant-at-Arms to Secretary of State Dean Acheson, Attorney General J. Howard McGrath and President Harry B. Mitchell of the Civil Service Commission. It was considered a foregone conclusion that they would be ignored.

Mr. Truman has made it plain that, upon his orders, officials of the government would defy any Congressional attempt to obtain the loyalty records of federal employees.

The subcommittee is investigating charges by Senator Joseph R. McCarthy, R-Wis., that the State Department's payroll is loaded with pro-Communists. It asked Mr. Truman for permission to see the loyalty files of the employees accused by McCarthy.

Phillies get around, especially with Ashburn, Hammer and the new second baseman, Mike Goltz. Even the Cubs have the idea with Jeffcoat, Smalley, Pafko and two or three new hands, one of whom is First Baseman Preston Ward, purchased from the Brooklyn organization.

The Reds will stand still, as per usual.

And while the Pirates have Stan Rojek and Pete Castiglione, they are the one large contradiction, featuring Ralph Kiner, the greatest home-run manufacturer of our time.

But there aren't as many home-run swatters around any more, so the game is to be speeded up as managers make necessity a virtue.

$41,000,000 Paid By Metropolitan

OTTAWA—More than $41,000,000 was paid to Canadian policyholders and their beneficiaries by the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company in 1949, Glen J. Spahn, in charge of the company's Canadian operations, announced when commenting on the Metropolitan's annual statement just published.

Mr. Spahn pointed out that over 86 per cent of this amount was paid to living Canadian policyholders who now number 2,390,000—one out of every six persons in Canada.

The total amount that the Metropolitan has paid to Canadians since it entered Canada in 1872, plus the amount now invested in Canada, exceeds the total premiums received from Canadians by more than $364,000,000.

INCOME TAX

The Ontario Legislature saw introduction by Premier Frost, who is also Provincial Treasurer, of two bills putting the province back in the personal income tax field, but they will not require any additional payments by Ontario residents. One bill repeals the 1936 Tax Act and the other provides authority to enter into agreement with the federal government for collection of a 5 per cent share of the income tax now being paid in Ontario to the federal government. A bill to impose a 9 per cent tax on logging operation profits also was introduced, but Premier Frost said that the net result for logging corporations paying federal and provincial tax will be a slightly smaller overall payment.

South Saanich farmers have solved the problem of cutting down the high cost of labor in repairing their hall.

The scheme was so successful that trustees of the institute have decided to hold another bee Saturday to finish the job.

UNCLE RAY

BOOKS OF H. G. WELLS
OPENED NEW THOUGHT TO READERS

Recently there have appeared several lists of men and women who did most to influence the human race during the past half century. One list was headed by Franklin D. Roosevelt, with Adolph Hitler and Winston Churchill among those who followed.

It may appear strange, at first glance, that Hitler should have been on any list, but it was made plain that the list was a measure of influence, whether or not the person was truly great. Hitler did influence mankind—for the worse. He turned the switch which brought on one of the horrors of history.

Strangely enough, I failed to find on that list a single man with the profession of a writer. Some of those listed have written books, but these have been "extras" in their lives.

Writers have a deep influence, but it is hard to tell just how much they bring about. Many years may pass before a high value is placed on their work.

Only three years and two months have gone by since one important writer died. I am thinking of Herbert George Wells, better known by the simpler name of "H. G. Wells."

Whether Wells should have been placed near the top is a question, but surely he is important. His novels opened the minds of people to new thoughts, and his "Outline of History" offered a new path in dealing with the story of mankind.

Wells was born in 1866, and was a member of a family which had little of the world's goods. His mother had been a household servant, his father a gardener. His father wanted better things, and at length opened a draper's shop, selling dry goods to the public. Later the father earned a living by playing on a professional cricket team. Cricket takes the place of baseball in Great Britain.

While the draper's shop was in operation, Herbert George worked there as a clerk. He did this in the free time he had from his studies in grammar school. (For Biography section of your scrapbook.)

VICTORIA, B.C., WEDNESDAY, MARCH 29, 1950

By ART STOTT

WHEN WE WERE kids in Second or Third Reader, one of our textbooks included a story about a "Bit o' Green." It was a touching little story of an invalid who lived in a small room in an industrial town. One of his friends had visited the country and brought him back the little plant. It was the sick boy's only contact with nature's beauty.

The trouble with the school study of the story was that you reached that part of the reader just about the time the sun was growing strong. It was all very well to read about the "Pot o' Green" on the boy's window sill. But if you looked out of the school window into the golden sunlight, you found yourself drifting away from the story and dreaming about baseball.

STILL, THE STORY helped to teach you what a plant or flower would mean to someone who couldn't walk in a garden, who couldn't saunter through the woods or who couldn't find blossoms or greenery even if he did.

That's probably the main reason for Lower Vancouver Island's success in the spring flower business—that and smart work by growers and Trans-Canada Air Lines air cargo service. While King Alfred's reign in the daffodil fields of this part of the world, the prairies and eastern Canada have little to offer in outdoor blooms.

In the last two years, the daffodil business has boomed. Before that flower shipments to the east went almost exclusively by train, in small shipments or refrigeration cars—refers to the trade. It was a three-day haul to Winnipeg. The market didn't extend much beyond that.

WITH AIR freight, it's possible to pick the blooms from a Gordon Head field and have them arranged in a Toronto living-room vase within 36 hours.

This year, it's doubtful if the growers have the stock in the ground to meet the demands of the market east of the Rockies. That's how the trade has grown.

Reduced air freight's charges make it possible to offer the blooms in eastern florists' shops for as little as 50 or 75 cents a dozen. Prices about that depend on mark-up. It costs more to pick daffodils in your own garden, pack them and send them air express. Charges for small parcels can't compete against those for bulk shipments.

FLORAL AIR transport is a natural for Alex Main, cargo sales representative here for T.C.A. He's immediate past president of the Victoria Horticultural Society. In his own garden he has between 1,500 and 2,000 daffs and tulips. He buys bulbs of new varieties, raises them himself and sees how they look as cut flowers, and how they'll ship.

With him, it's a labor of love and good business, too.

"For air shipments we pick them in what they call three-quarter bloom," says Alex. "That means they are almost fully grown, but have only three-fourths of their color. It's no use picking them green. If they go east that way, the florists have to keep them until they get their full color, and they don't want cut flowers lying around that long."

CHAIN STORES are buying a lot of daffodils in the east. Usually, Victoria and district growers hit the market a full 10 days ahead of mainland producers. This year it may be different. The peak of the daffodil crop will not be reached in time for Easter sales, but tulips will be along for Mother's Day early in May. A change to warmer weather could alter the picture. Even so, Alex expects to ship 55,000 dozen blooms from Pat Bay between now and Easter.

MORE ATTENTION, Alex says, is going to be paid to forcing bulbs under cover. By that means they can be brought along for definite dates. One experiment in which strings of lights are spread above boxes of bulbs can produce blooms nine days after the leaves have broken through the soil.

They're fooling the daffodils now, just as they kidded the chickens into higher egg production under the bright lights. With the daffs, though, they have to supply special fertilizer to boost them along.

Main thinks island growers can still learn a lot from the Dutch. "But," he adds, "you've got to credit the government for science and service. Without their men, both provincial and Dominion, daffodil fly might have cleaned a lot of growers out."

THE MAN WITH the test-tubs has come through again, putting gold in the bulb fields, and gold in the growers' pockets, with a reasonable cut for T.C.A.

Swan Visits Yacht Club Will Not Go Up Creek

Jill Still At Large After Appearing In Spoon Bay, Refusing Lure Of Bread

By DAVE STOCK

Two more attempts were made today to take Jill into custody. She got away, of course.

Jill, in case you didn't know, is the swan that ran away from home. She's been on the loose, let's see, 13 days now. And still shows no inclination of returning.

She has covered a lot of territory in that time. She's visited Esquimalt's West Bay and Ten-Mile Point's Telegraph Cove and has called in at practically all beaches in between.

In addition, she made at least one side trip to Discovery Island, about four miles off Oak Bay. She certainly has been busy in the last 24 hours. Tuesday she was sighted in Shoal Bay and later off the Chinese Cemetery at Foul Point.

This morning, she appeared first in Spoon Bay; then in front of the Royal Victoria Yacht Club, and then at Rattenbury's Beach.

Attempt to catch her was made by an Uplands resident while she was visiting the Yacht Club. The one man who took after her in the rowboat didn't have a chance.

When she turned up later at Rattenbury's Beach Mrs. Dorothy Ramsay, 2773 Somers Drive, lured Jill close to the outlet of Bowker Creek with some bread.

Mrs. Ramsay said the bird seemed hungry and came quite close to shore. Mrs. Ramsay thought she might get Jill into the creek where she might be easily captured.

Jill would only go so far, though. Guess that was because she wasn't getting any bread out of the deal. There were too many hungry seagulls around. Jill may be prettier, but she's certainly not as fast as members of the gull family.

WILL TRY TO CUT

No Budget Talks Until After Easter

First estimates meeting on the city budget will not be called until after Easter, Mayor Percy George said today.

"We will definitely try to get the tax rate down to the present 53 mills but I don't want services curtailed," he said.

"Certain work must be done and there is no desire on my part to eliminate essentials and necessary expansion work."

He indicated that all departments this year had been requested to keep their estimates down with the result the budget, which was presented to City Council Tuesday, had already had ample pre-trimming.

On the basis of that pre-trimming, it is doubtful whether a great amount can be cut. There is no chance of "wholesale slashing" of estimates at any rate, according to the mayor.

Homes For Aged Welcome Budget

An eight per cent reduction, provided for in the federal budget, on purchases for homes for the aged was welcomed in Victoria today.

"It will mean a considerable saving and we are certainly glad of the move," said Miss H. Boulton, matron of the Aged Women's Home today.

James Stothard, superintendent of the Aged Men's Home, said the move would effect a saving on furnishings. Neither could say what the actual saving would be.

Rare Plant Displayed At Show

Among rare plants displayed at two-day annual Vancouver Island Rock and Alpine Garden Society show in Crystal Garden is J. G. Worth's Rhododendron Leucaspis, or alpine rhododendron. Plant, exposed to winter snow at 273 King George Terrace, in Burma grows on tree trunks and mossy rocks. This is only one of its type in Victoria, Mr. Worth thinks.

Speedy Work By Firemen Saves New Fernwood Home

Quick work by city firemen wearing masks, put out a fire today that threatened the destruction of a new five-room bungalow at 2631 Fernwood Road owned by George H. Bean. No one was at home at the time.

The house, built about two and one-half years ago, was considerably damaged by smoke and fire. It was covered by fire insurance.

Fire Chief Robert Brindie said the fire could have been caused by overheated hot-air ducts in the basement.

Most damage was done to the basement ceiling.

Found Guilty On Food Act Charge

A fine of $25 and $32.50 in costs was imposed against M. H. Barry, 1786 Fort Street, in city police court today by Magistrate H. C. Hall. The alternative was 15 days in jail.

The magistrate found the merchant guilty on a charge of selling beef sausage adulterated by sulphur dioxide on a day early in last December. Charge was laid under the Dominion Food and Drugs Act.

Herbert W. Davey acted as Crown counsel, James J. Proudfoot, defence counsel, said he was taking steps to appeal the conviction.

The fine was the minimum laid down under the act.

No Drop In Price Of Dairy Products Seen From Budget

Victorians Show Little Reaction Over Finance Minister's Report

Although Finance Minister Abbott said in his budget speech Tuesday the 8 per cent sales tax was being dropped from ice cream, dairy drinks and prepared whipping cream, there seems little chance the price of these commodities in Victoria will be changed.

Dairymen believe they will still have to pay the tax on containers, supplies and machinery and in view of this, cannot see a way of cutting the price of their products to consumers.

The B.C. Protestant Orphanage on Cook Street stands to benefit through the new budget, however.

The minister announced orphanages no longer would be required to pay the 8 per cent sales tax.

"This will mean a very considerable saving to us," said Walter E. Staneland, president of the Protestant home. "It will be a great help. I am very pleased to hear this news."

Walter S. Miles, president of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce, observed: "It's about what was expected. I don't see how anybody could expect any major tax reductions with the cost of social services mounting."

Other Victorians questioned appeared to have little or no opinion on the budget.

Scanning of headlines for high lights was, in the main, the extent of the interest displayed by the average working man.

Shipping agent Cecil Ridout thought it was "pretty negative." Ted Bell in the C.P.R. ticket office admitted, as did many others, that he had not really studied it but he wondered about a "reduction in smokes and things like that."

Joseph Sharples of the Black Ball Ferry Line office here merely commented: "It doesn't affect me in any way personally, so I really can't say much about it."

Al Seed, 2829 Cedar Hill Road, a department store employee, said he was "slightly interested," in the budget, but had not thought much about it.

Among many others there were three stock answers:

1. "What budget?"
2. "I haven't had a chance to study it."
3. "I don't know anything about it."

To Build $90,000 Apartment Block

A $90,000 apartment will be constructed on Beach Drive, near Estevan Avenue, it was learned today. The modern structure will contain eight two-bedroom apartments and two one-bedroom units.

Apartments in the two-story building, finished in stucco and rough cedar siding on the outside, will be sold to tenants.

The contract has been awarded to George Farmer, F. W. Nicholls, architect, expects construction to start late this month.

Cyclist Injured

A severe cut on the right temple was suffered by 27-year-old cyclist Cecil Clifford, 950 Market Street, in an accident today on David Street west of Rock Bay Avenue.

After receiving first aid treatment by R. W. Halberg, 3042 Orillia Street, at the Moore and Whittington Mill, Clifford was taken to Jubilee Hospital for further treatment. Clifford told police the front mudguard jammed down on the tire to stop movement of the wheel and he was thrown over the handlebars on to the roadway.

Bones Indicate Cordova Bay Area Was Indian Camp

Discovery of a skeleton of an Indian at Cordova Bay Monday indicated that the area was once a native camp inhabited by a clam-eating band of Indians about two centuries ago, according to A. E. Pickford, retired Provincial Museum anthropologist.

Mr. Pickford who viewed the skeleton with Dr. G. C. Carl, Provincial Museum director, Tuesday said the site was ideal for a camp site, with a beach for easy canoe-landing, plenty of clams, ample fresh water in springs and streams.

Mr. Pickford described the skeleton as belonging to a young man about 25, five feet four inches tall.

MUGGINS

Another claim to ownership of First World War Red Cross collecting dog, Muggins, has been advanced. Mrs. H. Baker, 249 Roberts Street, says her sister, Mrs. B. Woodward, who died in Los Angeles a year and a half ago, owned the dog at the time it was collecting funds for the Red Cross, having previously acquired it from Mrs. Godfrey Booth.

Easter Toys Galore In Every Shade And Size

By PENNY SAVER

Of all the bunnies, chicks and even pink elephants I've seen in these last few days a mother duck and her very tiny off-springs have completely swept me off my size eights! No, I haven't been frittering away more of my time in the pet shop, but I have been going from counter to counter viewing all that's new for this sunny . . . we hope . . . Easter.

To tell you more about the feathered heart-breaker. She's the softest yellow plush duck I've ever seen. Guess she stands about nine inches high and on her cuddly round head she sports a white poke bonnet trimmed with blue. A bonnie blue ribbon secures the chapeau to her head. Just as is, I'd gladly pay the $3.95 for her, but to further win you over are her ducklings. Her two, four-inch high bunnies are also yellow plush, and can be found in the slat that has been made in the mother duck's wings. Well, if you could see how saucily they sit in the folds of mama's wings you'd be right behind me at the counter, doling out your good new one dollar bills.

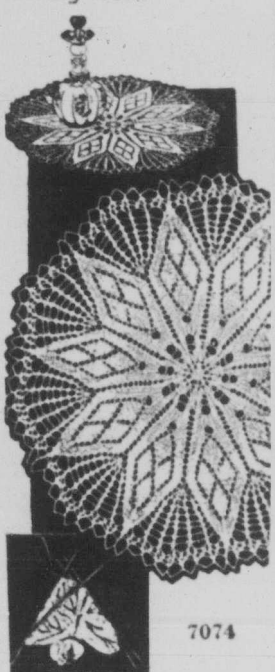

Then of course there's a little rabbit with bells on his feet. No kiddin'! He really has bells on his toes. They've designed the little fella with two very pliable front legs so that when you shake him the tinkle of the bells will brighten any child's face. In mauve and yellow plush, he's $1.95 . . . there's also the stand-up bunny who holds a brilliant red plastic ball between his paws, which sells for $1.95, as well as a fluffy tailed rabbit that stands two feet high for $4.95.

Many of the toys have been packed in plastic cases so that dust and continued handling will not soil them. It's a particularly hygienic idea as well as making it easy to wrap them as gifts. They too, are $1.95.

That pink elephant I saw wasn't the result of any indulgence in "fire water" on my part, either. But then, I guess I wouldn't mind seeing pink elephants if they were all as beautiful as that plush $3.95 toy. If Junior doesn't rise two feet off the ground in sheer delight at the sight of that elephant I'd make no bones about it, but very quietly place the toy on a ledge in my own bedroom!

By the by, if you are planning to make up baskets of assort Easter goodies you can buy little vari-colored chicks . . . they're plush too . . . for five pennies, cellophane "straw" in either yellow or green, at 10 cents a package, and baskets of every color for 10 cents and up.

Balanced Menus Can Be Fun When Cook Knows Secret Of Well-Tried Recipes

Any experienced housewife will vouch for the fact that there's more to this business of meal preparation than can be found in the average cook book.

Trying new recipes can be fun, provided that the cook knows the well-tried ones and then carefully follows directions. She must also keep an eye on menu balance.

For instance before picking a rich dinner dessert she should make sure that the main course is not equally heavy. Otherwise upset stomachs may result.

Here are several recipes for light tasty desserts:

Cream Fluff — Ingredients: one-third cup sugar; one-third cup flour; one-eighth teaspoon salt; one-half cup cold milk; one and one-half cups hot milk; two egg yolks; one teaspoon butter; one teaspoon vanilla; two egg whites; three tablespoons sugar.

Mix sugar, flour and salt. Combine thoroughly with cold milk. Stir in hot milk and cook in top of double-boiler, stirring constantly until thickened.

Beat egg yolks, combine with a little of the hot mixture and add to mixture in double-boiler.

Cook three minutes and remove from heat. Add butter and vanilla. Make a meringue of the egg whites and the three tablespoons sugar and fold into cream mixture. Yield: six servings.

Quick Caramel Custard — Ingredients: four eggs; one-third cup white sugar; one-quarter teaspoon salt; three cups milk; one-half teaspoon vanilla; two-thirds cup light brown sugar.

Beat eggs until light. Add white sugar and salt, blending well. Scald milk and add slowly to egg mixture. Add vanilla. Beat custard mixture until well blended. Sift brown sugar and place in the bottom of a large greased baking-dish or six greased individual moulds, packing it down well. Pour custard over top.

Place the baking dish in a pan of hot water and oven-poise in a moderate oven (350 degrees Fahrenheit) until custard is firm and a silver knife inserted in the centre comes out clean (about 50 minutes). Chill. Yield: six servings.

The following heavy desserts are ideal for luncheon or any other meal where the main course may be a salad or some light dish.

Steamed Graham Pudding — Ingredients: one-quarter cup shortening; one-half cup molasses; one egg; one and one-half cups sifted graham or whole wheat flour; one-half teaspoon soda; one teaspoon salt; one-half cup milk; one cup seeded raisins, dates or figs (cut into pieces).

Melt shortening, add molasses and well-beaten egg. Mix and sift flour, soda and salt and add, alternately with the milk, to first mixture. Add raisins. Fill greased moulds two-thirds full, cover tightly with waxed paper and steam for two hours. If using a pressure saucepan allow two cups water for steaming and steam for 30 minutes without indicator, then at cook position (15 pounds), for 20 minutes.

Two-Year World Trip Completed Yesterday

Mr. Alfred Foubister, his wife Thelma, and children, Murray, Sandra and little Michele, returned to Victoria yesterday after an absence of two years. Mr. Foubister, well known in the city's athletic circles some years ago, taught school on Vancouver Island and at Wells, B.C., before starting travels that have taken him and his family to Australia, where he taught school for a time, and the British Isles, with many stopovers along the way. "Now it's a good to be home again," both Mr. and Mrs. Foubister chorus. The family are staying at present with Mr. Foubister's father, Mr. David Foubister, 1270 Denman Street.

Canada, South America Could Meet In World Market, Mrs. Rolston Says

"World peace largely depends on world trade," Mrs. Tilly Rolston, M.L.A. for Vancouver-Point Grey, told members of the Women's Canadian Club yesterday afternoon, in summing up her impressions of a four-month tour of South America last year. "If people are well fed, can sell their goods, and can maintain a fairly high standard of living, there is no trouble. "Canada is going to need world markets for her goods. South America is our second nearest neighbor country and she needs world markets. "To promote trade between our two countries we need to know more about each other and I feel one way of promoting understanding is for our Canadian people not only to visit South America themselves but to send university students from this country on specially arranged project tours to gather information needed."

Mrs. Rolston, in a delightfully informal manner tinged with more than a little humor, described her tour that included a cruise down the Pacific coast of South America through the Straits of Magellan and north along the Atlantic coast. She spoke of the fertility of the Argentine, the beauties of Buenos Aires and Rio de Janeiro. She told of a plane trip across the Andes and a day spent with Madame Eva Peron, wife of the president of Argentina, that included a tour of the children's foundation that is one of her greatest interests. And she described the peoples of the South American countries and their various ways of life.

Mrs. H. L. Smith, president of the club, introduced the speaker and Mrs. Gordon Wismer thanked her at close of the address.

Easter Bunnies To Appear At Garden Library Egg Hunt

The foot of a sloping hillside, encircled with huge oak and fir trees, will form a natural setting where Easter bunnies will romp and play, at the Children's Garden Library, the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. McGill, 1170 Tattler Drive.

The occasion will be the presentation of "The Magic Egg," by West Saanich School, as a special feature of the annual Easter egg hunt to be held April 1, under sponsorship of Robert Burns McKicking Chapter, I.O.D.E.

A cast of 20 children in Easter fantasy costumes will participate in the play under the direction of W. W. Hatch, principal of West Saanich School.

The cast for the play, set in a sunshiny spot in the woods where Easter bunnies live, includes Tommy Dignan as Papa Bunny; Jacquelin Cubbage, Mama Bunny; David Durrance, Raymond Powell and Estermae Burdon as Peter, Paul and Polly Bunny; Alma Kopell, Mrs. Feathers; Tony Shaw, Mr. Feathers; Marlene Carbert and Maurice Royston, girl and boy; Janet Lien, Sylvia Cave, Joan Curi, Robert Callaghan, Raymond Nikirk, first group of children, and Arlyne Logan, Patsy Tidman and Paddy Patterson, second group of children.

The Easter egg hunt, for children 5 to 11 years of age, will begin at 2, and as a special feature there will be a few golden eggs hidden about the grounds as well, for which special prizes will be awarded to finders.

Proceeds will be used for I.O.D.E. work, educational, child and family welfare and overseas food parcels.

LIFE TOO EASY, COUPLE SAY

BELLEVEILLE, Ont. (CP)—Mr. and Mrs. James Weese, celebrating their 62nd wedding anniversary at nearby Rednersville, say they would welcome the opportunity of living their lives over again—but not in the present generation.

They say that life today is too easy; that the present generation lives only for pleasure and is quite willing to let the government support them.

Mr. Weese, an 84-year-old retired farmer, admits that modern farm machinery has made the lot of the farmer much easier. But he says it has not increased the productivity of the farms.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Weese, 78, are still active. Each summer they work in a friend's canning factory.

CAN WOMEN RESIST COLOR?

OTTAWA (CP)—Dr. A. M. Shaw, chairman of Canada's Agricultural Prices Support Board, has a word of advice for would-be thrifty shoppers: restrain that impulse to pick up a tastefully-wrapped commodity.

He told a meeting of the Canadian Association of Consumers last night that one reason for mounting grocery bills is their inability to resist that temptation of "impulse buying."

A large percentage of housekeepers, wandering through grocery and chain stores purchased quantities of food they "absolutely don't need" just because the product is presented in bright, colorful wrapping and containers.

TODAY'S RECIPE

CHOCOLATE SOUFFLE

Ingredients: Two eggs, separated; ½ teaspoon salt; ½ teaspoon vanilla; ½ cup flour; 2 tablespoons sugar; 1½ cups scalded milk; 2 tablespoons butter; ¼ package (½ cup) chocolate bits.

Method: Melt chocolate bits over warm water and set aside to cool slightly. Beat two egg whites until stiff but not dry, with salt and vanilla. Combine flour and sugar in saucepan and gradually add scalded milk. Cook, stirring constantly until thickened and smooth. Remove from heat and beat in butter and egg yolks. Swirl cooled chocolate through the mixture to give rippled effect. Divide into individual ungreased baking cups or dishes and bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) for about 25 minutes. Serve at once, with whipped cream if desired.

Mother Must Work To Use Nurseries

SURBITON, Surrey, England (CP)—Children will not be admitted to Surrey county day nurseries in future unless the mother is the family's sole wage-earner.

Surrey county council announced this in disclosing a plan to close down seven of its 43 nurseries as an economy measure. Those affected are at Hertham, Addlestone, Woking, Kingston, Worcester Park, Epsom, and Ewell and Barnes.

The plan will save the county £350,000 ($108,500) a year.

DOROTHY DIX

Dear Miss Dix: What can I do to break up a love affair between my 17-year-old high school girl and a 19-year-old boy who is also still in school? He is a good boy morally, comes from a nice family, but is the spoiled son of indulgent parents. He has a vague idea of marriage some day, but apparently not a prospect in the world. I thought it just safe love with them, but the attachment is growing too deep and I sense the danger of a girl's best years being wasted on an admirer where there is no promise. With some sacrifice I could send her away for the summer, but she rebels at leaving. Is my only cue to stand by and let them work it out?

WORRIED MOTHER.

Answer: The only thing you can do is to stand by, but you need not stand idly by. Your first move should be to stop discussing your daughter's love affair with her. Opposition is not only the greatest matchmaker in the world, but the quickest. Let this affair ride. Let the boy come to see your daughter as often as he wishes. Be nice and casual to him. Just remember that Time is your ally, and that when the boy goes off to college the chances are that the affair will fade painlessly out. Sending the girl off is a good idea if you can send her to some amusing place, because absence makes the heart grow fonder of someone else. Even if she resents leaving her sweetheart she will soon get interested in some other chap.

But I think you are worrying too much over your daughter's matrimonial prospects being blighted. If she were 25, the dilly-dally lover would be a tragedy, but at 17 he is only a pleas- and filler-in of the time.

Hall, Friday at 8. Dr. C. Carl gave a talk and showed films of Triangle Island and the "Four Country Gentlemen" gave several songs. Refreshments were served.

TOUR INSPIRES

Pottery Designs In Canada

MONTREAL (CP)—Miss Clarice Cliff, whose pottery designs have made her a member of the Royal College of Art in England, said she plans designs on the best of China for Canadians.

Miss Cliff has just completed a Canadian tour and has "so many ideas for new designs it will take quite a while to sort them all out."

Many gay nursery dishes at an exhibit here were designed from her plans. One is a personal porridge bowl for Britain's Prince Charles.

One of her Canadian designs, she said, will use colorful autumn leaves. Another will have Montreal street scenes.

Asked what other Canadian cities she was considering working into pottery designs, Miss Cliff said:

"Well, I was considering Toronto. But Toronto is so difficult to make interesting."

Add a tablespoon or more of cinnamon to a quarter cup of honey and you have a delicious spread for 5 or 6 slices of buttered toast to serve for afternoon tea.

Red Cross Stresses Need For Women To Aid Once A Week In Workroom

An urgent appeal is being made to women in Victoria by the Canadian Red Cross Society.

The Red Cross workrooms are in need of helpers and it is pointed out by the society that the 1949 quota of garments and articles set by the National Women's Work Committee remains unfilled.

Many women in this city could spare at least one morning a week in the Red Cross workrooms if they realized the tremendous need.

Those wishing to give assistance will be welcomed at any one of the following workrooms: Headquarters, 1046 Fort Street, B 2511; Miss Frances Brown is in charge and may be contacted from 9 to 1 each day. Both machine and hand work done.

Oak Bay Municipal Hall, Tuesdays from 10 to 12, where Mrs. P. F. Curtis, G 1756, is in charge and work is hand sewing.

Oak Bay Municipal Hall, on Thursday from 10 to 12. Mrs. J. A. Turner, B 2887, is in charge. A quantity of pieced quilts are waiting for quilters to put them together.

In this connection the Red Cross has received an emergency call from the divisional office for quilts, as their supply has been depleted by calls from Ocean Falls, following the disastrous fire.

Esquimalt Unit, Mrs. Baugh-Allen, E 1281, in charge. Hand sewing and machine work may be done at home. Meetings are the first Thursday in the month. With the war well behind, there is a tendency to relax and consider the need of such work is over. But this is definitely not the case, the Red Cross Society points out.

Miss Honor Nash, chairman for Victoria City and District Branch Women's Work, reported that on a visit to England last summer she called at various children's hospitals and homes for the aged where Canadian Red Cross articles had been provided.

She states that there is a desperate need of an ever-increasing quantity of clothing, quilts, etc., in these institutions as well as for war-torn Europe. The gratitude of the English people is shown by their many letters of appreciation, and thanking the Red Cross for their splendid work.

Breakfast is actually the most important meal of the day. A dish of cooked prunes, toast and a soft-cooked egg plus a beverage will make an adequate small breakfast. For something a little different add a couple of orange slices and a piece of stick cinnamon to the cooking liquid of the prunes.

B.C. Police Change Passes In Face Of C.C.F. Attack

Employment Of Mounties Leads To Militarized Force, Says Harold Winch

Despite a bitter C.C.F. attack, the Legislature Tuesday gave second reading to the bill authorizing merger of the B.C. police force with the R.C.M.P.

Opposition Leader Harold Winch asked at the end of an hour-long assault against the government's proposed change in provincial law enforcement for one of two things:

That either the bill be withdrawn, or that powers of ratification of any agreement reached with the national government on the change in police policy be given to the Legislature rather than the cabinet.

Mr. Winch charged that ever since 1928 the Dominion government had attempted, with every change in the office of attorney-general of the province, to get control of the B.C. police force.

He read newspaper reports of efforts made to bring the R.C.M.P. in to British Columbia and said the former provincial attorney-general, Harry Pooley, had argued successfully that the province would lose money if such a change in policing was effected.

SECURITY MEASURE

The Opposition Leader could not understand why Attorney-General Gordon Wismer had argued in the House the day before that it would be adding strength to the security of the province to have the "Mounties" take control of the provincial force.

"The B.C. police did all right in World War II. I don't recall one act of sabotage in the province," said Mr. Winch.

The C.C.F. Leader then dwelt at length on the question of powers the provincial cabinet was seeking in passage of the bill.

As the legislation stood, the cabinet could make any agreement with Ottawa on employment of R.C.M.P. in place of

Commemoration Committee Asked

Suggestion that City Council appoint a permanent committee to select and seek means of commemorating outstanding citizens was put before council at its meeting Tuesday in a letter from Miss Ethel M. Bruce.

Miss Bruce was particularly concerned that nothing has been done here to honor the memory of Dr. J. S. Plaskett, first director of the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory on Little Sanich Mountain.

Dr. Plaskett is credited with having made many valuable contributions to the field of astronomy during his years at the Saanich centre.

No Increases In Salaries Of B.C. Cabinet

There will be no salary increases for the Premier and members of the cabinet, Premier Byron Johnson announced flatly in the Legislature Tuesday.

He said that during his absence in England private members of the House had passed a round-robin saying that the time had come to boost the amount of money the taxpayers paid to the government leaders.

It had been suggested the Premier receive $15,000 a year, instead of $9,000 and cabinet ministers $10,000, instead of $7,500.

Mr. Johnson said he deeply appreciated the gesture and he said he was fully aware of the responsibilities faced by the Premier and the cabinet. Yet, he said, he thought it unwise at the present to increase the salaries.

Mr. Johnson said this province was entering a difficult period, with a budget of $105,000,000. The government, he said, will exert every effort towards economy and will make careful surveys of every department. Perhaps, when the whole service was streamlined, it would be possible to increase the cabinet salaries.

Mr. Johnson said: "I say this because of what I think is in the best interests of this province and this Legislature. It may be a matter for another year."

'SOMETHING FUNNY'

Autoists Say Maybe 'Twas Flying Disc

EDMONTON (CP)—Two Edmonton motorists said today they are convinced they nearly collided with "something funny"—maybe a flying saucer—while driving 20 miles northwest of here Sunday morning.

The men, Tom Campbell and Phil Sherbanik, said a lighted, balloon-like object 20 feet in diameter passed 30 feet over the top of their automobile.

"We were driving at a good speed when a sudden big flash of light nearly blinded us—right on the highway in front of us," said Campbell. "It was much brighter than a car headlight and seemed to be coming directly for us."

He said it looked like a balloon with a bluish white light inside and he estimated the speed at 100 miles an hour. He said he stopped the car and the object vanished in a snowstorm.

Campbell said he did not believe the flying saucer stories before but now is convinced that "something funny is going on."

Victoria Seeks Share Of Arthritis 'Miracle' Drug

Victoria may get a supply of cortisone, the so-called "miracle" drug for arthritis and rheumatic fever, for research purposes only, it was learned today.

A shipment of cortisone has arrived in Vancouver and Victoria doctors hope that part of the supply will be set aside for distribution to hospitals here.

Dr. R. H. Fraser, president of the Canadian Arthritis and Rheumatism Society, Victoria branch, said a meeting was being held in Vancouver this week to discuss the distribution and handling of the drug which arrived from eastern Canada.

"We in Victoria don't know where we stand," he said. "We hope to get a supply of cortisone here. A committee will decide the matter in Vancouver."

He said the cortisone would have to be carefully handled and used for research purposes only because of the scarcity of the drug. He explained that cortisone was also effective against some other types of diseases. Doctors said cortisone would

Increase Sought In Grant For Publicity

The Victoria Passenger's Association has written City Council, asking that it increase the annual grant awarded the Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau by $5,000.

In a letter signed by Ken Briggs, president, the association states the bureau is doing good work in bringing tourists here but is faced with increased costs on every hand.

The bureau during recent years has received an annual grant of $20,000 from the city.

Going 'Down Under'

VANCOUVER (BUP)—Mayor Charles Thompson of Vancouver has accepted an invitation from the Lord Mayor of Sydney and will leave for Australia within the next two weeks.

He will bring the Lord Mayor of Sydney a present from the city of Vancouver. The gift, not yet picked, will be typical of British Columbia.

By Faith Man's Strength Can Be Renewed, Psychiatrist States

Dr. Blanton is an eminent psychiatrist whose training included the greatest universities of Europe. He is one of the pioneers in the working partnership of religion and psychiatry. He understands people, and his wise and kindly insight will help you.

By DR. SMILEY BLANTON

Most people crawl through life on hands and knees. They have no faith to sustain themselves, to give them confidence in other people or trust in the Creator.

The spirit in them to do—to live to the full—repeats continuously, like the ticking of a clock. "I should have done . . . I should have done . . . I should have done . . ."

"But you have not," says the sum of their accomplishments, "and now it is too late."

Too late, indeed? It is never too late through faith to tap the reserves of strength that are forever accumulating deep in everyone; never too late through faith to find the sources of power which give men courage; never too late to acquire faith in one's self, and above all, faith in other people, in other causes, other ideals. With this faith, people very often do the impossible.

Without faith to rise up and carry on, life is empty. To some people even the void of death seems more desirable, for one cannot be physically or mentally healthy without faith. If you believe in nothing, why make the sacrifices for others? Why endure pain and hardship?

Lack of faith, or loss of it, can also mean the end of even life itself.

Recently I saw a woman who lost their jobs because their work was unappreciated and they were not treated fairly. Actually they might have been inefficient.

TAKE SUGGESTIONS

Besides such self-deception, another barrier to acquiring faith is refusal to accept suggestions and the feeling that other people can't be "trusted." Naturally, one must beware of well-wishers, but most people who refuse to take any advice at all are morbidly obstinate. Their minds are closed and their hearts are hardened even to the suggestions of people who like them and who have their best interests at heart.

The third barrier to faith is the refusal to accept help, a feeling that you can and must do everything yourself. Persons with this difficulty cannot delegate authority, for they feel no one can do the job as well as themselves; they are so self-centred that they cannot believe in any power or ideal above and beyond themselves. They refuse to admit that they need the help of friends, doctor, minister, or even God.

How can these barriers of faith be hurdled? In difficult cases, a very effective method is the combination treatment of psychological medicine and religious teaching. Psychological medicine is often necessary first to break down the barriers so that religious faith may be developed.

CAN HELP SELVES

But many people can help themselves to faith through self-examination. Make a habit of spending some time by yourself every day, of relaxing in an easy chair, or on a couch, where the cares and multiple little pinpricks of life can't take your attention, where the telephone can't call you and the radio can't make you tense with the latest news.

Then think about yourself—honestly! Let your intelligence melt away the barriers to faith—the self-deception which says that bad fortune was never your fault, the negative attitude which prevents you from taking any suggestions from other people, and the self-sufficiency which drives you to try to do everything yourself.

Then, when you realize these barriers to faith, and these mental attitudes which get you flustered with life, relax even more—even beyond thinking. Slip into that thoughtless other world of reverie where lies the power to fortify you for the tasks of tomorrow.

Rebirth of faith comes to us only if we find the courage for self-examination. The vision of our own deeper selves is purely personal, but there is a yearning in all of us to think that we are newborn into a world of fresh opportunity. And new life, in a new world, can come to you—for the impulse to have it is as old as man, and as persistent.

KEYS TO FAITH

1. Neither physical nor mental health is possible without faith—faith not only in ourselves, but also in ideals above and beyond us.

2. Through faith, it is never too late to tap the reservoirs of strength forever accumulating in each and every one of us.

3. You can acquire faith if you lay aside the cares of life; each day in a quiet hour of relaxation and self-examination dispel the barriers of self-deception and let your deeper creative forces restore you.

4. In difficult cases faith can be restored through psychological medicine and teaching.

TOMORROW: Gil Dodds, holder of the world's indoor record for the mile run and one of the great athletic champions of his age, tells how defeat taught him he must have faith to do his best.

(From the magazine Guideposts and the book of the same name, edited by Norman Vincent Pease. Copyright, 1950 by Guideposts Associates, Inc., Pawling, New York.)

was recovering satisfactorily from a major operation. She thought her marriage had been happy, but about a week after the operation her husband came to the hospital and told her he wanted a divorce. Suddenly there was nothing left for the woman to believe in; life collapsed with a black crash. She began to run a temperature, and refused to eat. In a few days she became unconscious, and died.

No physical reason for her death could be discovered. But her faith had been destroyed, and life was not worth the effort of living without it.

But some adults fail to understand the cause of their inability to acquire faith. Speak to them about it, and they will give you a multitude of reasons other than the true one. They alibi that they

Tax Rate Of 55.8 Mills Set In New City Budget

First draft of estimates for 1950 presented at City Council meeting Tuesday showed a total expenditure of $4,677,349 and a required tax rate of 55.8 mills or 2.8 mills above the present record high of 53 mills.

Fears of a need for 60 mills, expressed earlier this year in some civic circles were quickly dispelled.

The figures in the plump 46-page statistical brief even gave cause for cautious relief, that taxpayers might this year get a drop in their rate.

MAY CUT RATE

Last year City Council went into estimates which required a 60-mill tax rate and pared them down to 53. If they do as well this year, that is pare by seven mills, the rate would stand at 48.8.

On motion of Ald. Harold M. Diggon, chairman of the finance committee, the estimates were immediately referred to a committee of the whole to be formed into an estimates committee to meet at the call of the chair.

Estimated expenditures this year are $569,212 above last year's figure of $4,108,137.

In a covering letter, D. A. Macdonald, comptroller-treasurer, said estimated receipts stood at $2,260,844, leaving $2,384,437 to be raised.

"On the assessed value of land and 65 per cent of the assessment of improvements, this will require a rate of 55.8 mills," Mr. M. Macdonald said.

"Last year's rate of 53 mills would produce $2,456,208."

Further provision must be made for completion of Dallas Road sea wall, he said, as well as for increased salaries and wages and hospitals amounting to $167,932.

INCREASE

Uncontrollable expenditures which cannot be cut are debt charges of $552,951; education costs of $931,281 and police department of $308,308, making a total of $1,792,542. All three are up from the 1949 figure.

Largest item in controllable expenditures, those items on which the city does its paring, is the $715,111 estimated for public works. Next comes $540,554 for waterworks followed by $360,098 for the fire department.

Fourth largest item is miscellaneous at $221,672.

Then comes parks at $151,432; the library at $101,970; street lighting at $86,519; social welfare at $84,900; building inspector's office at $72,283; board of health at $72,119; boulevards at $69,805; hospitals at $63,000.

Public works estimates passed for 1949 totaled $448,908 compared with this year's estimates for $715,111.

Debt charges are up from the 1949 figure of $516,666; education costs up from last year's $544,821 and police estimates up from last year's $285,237.

CITY MANAGER

A new figure in this year's estimates is $30,000 for the municipal manager's office, to include "salaries, stationery, etc."

Public works estimates in 1949 were $521,408 but were pared down to $494,277. Helping to up this year's estimates is the increase in sewerage estimates for the 1949 expenditure of $47,546 to $121,706 for 1950.

Estimates for streets, bridges and sidewalks are up from the 1949 expenditure of $290,009. Sanitary works estimates are up approximately $100,000.

City To Spend $33,864 On Dallas Road Seawall

Sum of $33,864 will be provided out of this year's estimates for completion of repairs to Dallas Road Sea Wall City Council decided at its meeting Tuesday.

Certain sums, in connection with the $118,864 job were in dispute but following a meeting with George H. Wheaton, contractor and A. J. Patton, city solicitor, public works committee recommended that Wheaton Construction Company be paid in full for their work to date. The sum amounted to $42,487.

Funds Voted For Laying Of Water Mains

City Council Tuesday authorized laying of pipe on Runnymede Avenue, Cowichan Street and extension of McNeill Avenue and accepted a tender from Ramsay Adams Foundry of $2,530 for cost of iron pipe fittings.

Funds for the laying of mains, are to be obtained from the balance of $13,186 authorized by city council in January for laying of pipe on Foul Bay Road from Fairfield to Quamichan.

In a covering letter, G. M. Irwin, water commissioner said the department was working on the last block of Foul Bay and it would be more economical to do Runnymede at the same time. "We should have more work passed because we will shortly have delivery of upwards of $50,000 of pipe from England and would save handling to take it direct to the streets rather than through the city yard," Mr. Irwin wrote.

CKDA Wants To Carry Council Meets On Air

Portions of City Council meetings may be broadcast over a local radio station in the not too distant future.

Radio station CKDA applied to the council at its meeting Tuesday, asking permission to record certain parts of council proceedings to make up a half-hour weekly program.

David M. Armstrong, station owner and manager, stated in a letter it was the intention of the station to broadcast the recorded proceedings without comment. The program would be sponsored, he said, by a local reputable merchant.

Council was divided on whether the radio station should be allowed to proceed with its plan.

Ald. Waldo Skillings suggested the broadcasters should at least be allowed to make tests to see if their plans were practical. He moved a motion to this effect.

The motion won support from Ald. Mrs. Hilda Baxter, Mrs. Margaret Christie, William Pinfold, Frank Mulliner and Mayor George. Voting against the motion were Ald. D. D. McTavish, P. B. Scourrah, H. M. Diggon and Dr. J. D. Hunter.

Asks Caution Over Statue

Mrs. Adelaide B. Marshall, 1075 Verrinder Avenue, thinks members of the City Council should "look a gift queen in the mouth."

She told them so in a letter read at a council meeting Tuesday.

Mrs. Marshall was referring to the statue of Queen Victoria now in Dublin, Eire, which has been offered to Victoria as a gift. She says the council should not undertake to bring the weighty statue all this way if it is going to be unsightly.

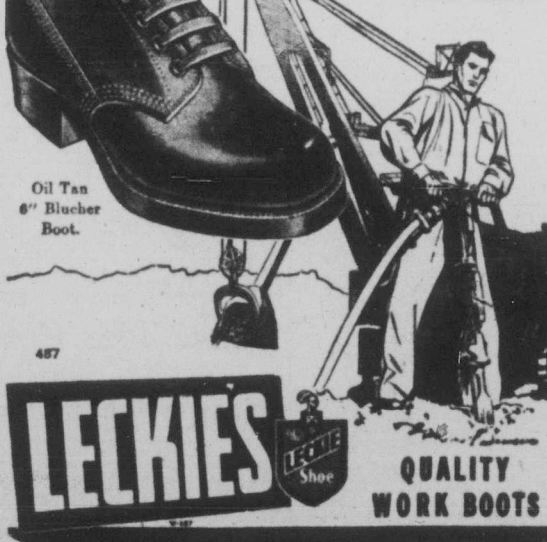

At the same meeting, council received a letter from J. Edward Sears, Vancouver man, who has offered to pay freight charges on the statue.

Mr. Sears' letter revealed he is going ahead with plans for bringing the statue here. He says he doesn't think he will bother to ship the granite base for it, though, as there is plenty of granite on the island.

He said the statue might not need a granite base anyway. He suggested the queen could be put on a natural rocky.

Spring In Evidence As Council Deals With Parks, Playgrounds

There were signs of spring in the city's discussion of playground items at council meeting Tuesday.

Central Mortgage and Housing will be offered $1 for a lot at Rutledge and Villance on Topaz Heights for a playground, on recommendation of the parks committee.

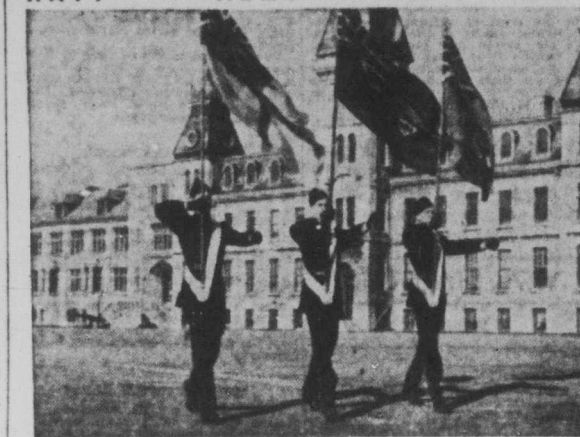

Recommendation that W. H. Warren, parks administrator be authorized to share on a 50-50 basis, cost of purchasing equipment provided for various play-lots in the city was referred back to parks committee for clarification.

The committee stated it had received several requests from residents and felt if the offers were accepted more interest would be shown by parents and community in care of equipment.

Lattimore To Come Home To Refute Charge
KARACHI, Pakistan (UP) — Owen Lattimore was scheduled to leave by plane tonight for the United States to answer charges that he is a top Soviet spy.
Lattimore said on his arrival here Tuesday night from Kabul, Afghanistan, that the espionage charges made in Washington by "Sen. Joseph McCarthy (R-Wis)" were "completely moonshine and pure hallucination."
"I cannot say what sort of hallucinations until I know what sort of information he is going on," he added.
"I have been writing on the far east in general for the past 20 years and Sen. McCarthy is literate enough to consult the Senate library, which is easily accessible to him, to find my background."
Lattimore was serving as a consultant to a United Nations mission in Kabul when notified of McCarthy's charges.
He said he was unable to tell whether McCarthy's charge would harm American prestige abroad because he had been out of touch with the general situation during his stay in Kabul.

Flying Fans Had Good Luck
VERNON (BUP)—Seven hockey fans and the pilot of a Junkers plane were lucky Tuesday when they escaped uninjured after a forced landing among floating logs on Shuswap Lake.
Pilot Hal Quinn had to set the plane down on the water between Enderby and Grindrod because he had run out of gas. The plane was slightly damaged.
Quinn had been taking hockey fans from Trail to Kamloops. Passengers included Michael McCormick, Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Hickman, and Mrs. Gordon Smith, Mrs. Jack Kirk and Dr. T. S. Perrett.

A contract for $136,995 for rebuilding of the government wharf on the industrial reserve has been awarded Pacific Pile Driving Co., Victoria.
It is reported work will get under way in about six weeks.
Built in 1913, the wharves are used by the lighthouse tender Estevan, the hydrographic survey ship William J. Stewart and other smaller government ships.
Two storage sheds will have to be removed temporarily during the rebuilding.
Recently a building permit was granted for construction of a large new warehouse on the site, just north of Johnson Street Bridge.

Harris Green Held Part Of Street; No Park Area

The move to have Harris Green dedicated a park area died in its infancy at City Council meeting Tuesday.

Board of directors of First Church of Christ Scientist had requested dedication which would thus reserve the area from any possible conveyance for building purposes. The board had strongly opposed the proposed transfer of a portion of the green for erection of a welfare building.

The parks and boulevards committee recommended the city take no action, since the green is a part of a public highway, namely Pandora Avenue, and therefore cannot be used for any other purpose.

Council favored an agreement

Claims Union Run By Reds

MONTREAL — (CP) — Sam Baron, international vice-president of the Textile Workers' Union (C.I.O.-C.C.L.), said Tuesday that the rival United Textile Workers of America (T.L.C.-A.F.L.) is run by Communists and named four of its top Canadian officials as Communists.

At a press conference Baron named as "Communists and members of the Labor-Progressive Party" R. Kent Rowley, vice-president and Canadian director of the U.T.W., Miss Madeleine Parent, secretary-treasurer of the Canadian district, Leo Roback, research and publicity director and Charles Lipton, organizer.

Baron said the A.F.L.-affiliated union is "shot through and through with Communists."

Rent Control Measure Too Wide, Drew Claims

P.C. Leader Says Bill Before Commons Gives Powers To Conscript Manpower

OTTAWA (CP)—George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, urged the government in the Commons to revise legislation providing for extension of domestic rent controls.

Resuming debate on the control legislation after Finance Minister Abbott had read his budget speech, Mr. Drew said the rentals bill continued controls which gave the government power over practically all human activity, including the conscription of manpower.

He suggested the government take overnight action so that to day it could present the Commons with a bill providing only for the extension of rent control until April 30, 1951.

It was perhaps not known to all members, he said, that the bill before the Commons went much farther than rent controls in the power it gave the government. It could enable the government to exercise controls over many classes of goods and services.

"It continues in force all the regulations except those definitely limited in legislation enacted in 1949," said Mr. Drew.

Some of the controls to be continued covered production of goods and services, their distribution, disposal and transportation. That gave the Prices Board control over practically all human activity in this country, including conscription of manpower.

Earlier, the Commons had adopted a bill giving permanent effect to the government's agricultural prices support legislation. The adoption came after members had defeated a vote of 152 to 58 a C.C.F. amendment that would have inserted in that legislation a formula for fixing floor prices.

The C.C.F. amendment drew support from the Progressive Conservative and Social Credit parties and I. W. Studer (L.-Maple Creek, Sask.). The opposition argued there should be some relationship between the price paid farmers and the goods they have to buy.

TO SCRAP MANY

High Level Demand For Autos Seen

By FORBES RHUDE

Canadian Press Business Editor

For the present year it seems probable that demand for automobiles will continue at its currently high level, says the current commercial letter of the Canadian Bank of Commerce.

In the longer term view, the letter indicates, there are conflicting factors of more difficult Commonwealth markets, and a possible rise in the Canadian standard of living.

The letter says in part: "Despite the increasing supply of cars of all types within the last few days, the degree of obsolescence is still considerably higher on the average than it was before the war. Passenger cars are nearly three years and trucks almost 2½ years older, on the average, than they were in 1939, when it was customary to scrap passenger cars after 12 years and trucks after 11 years."

On the prewar basis of replacement it is estimated that almost 600,000 passenger cars and 120,000 trucks are in line for scrapping. This does not, of course, imply an immediate effective demand of any such proportions, but it is a potential backlog which should keep automobile plants operating at a high level for some time.

The most urgent of postwar demands now appear to have been filled, and while, in the case of passenger cars and small trucks, with certain exceptions a seller's market still exists, deliveries have been speeded up and prospective purchasers are "shopping around" as they have not done in years.

Clubmen Told Of Britain's Grim Struggle

Kiwians are learning about all aspects of conditions in post-war Britain ranging from the optimistic viewpoint of complete recovery from the effects of two world wars through to the opinion she will never regain her status as head of a great empire.

Two weeks ago, members of the local service club heard Andrew D. MacLean predict a favorable future for Britain. At their luncheon meeting at the Empress Hotel Tuesday, Dr. W. A. Lincoln, Calgary, painted a grim word-picture of his thoughts on the subject.

"The scars of two wars have sapped the vitality of England. Though her immediate problems will be solved, she will never be the great power she was," the speaker said.

SHOWED THE WAY

Britain, he added, had showed the way for many centuries in science, letters, government, exploration and even many sports, but he wondered if she would ever again be able to make such tremendous contributions.

$2,500 Voted For May Day Parades

A grant of $2,500 was made by the city Tuesday, to the Greater Victoria Celebrations Association to assist in staging May 24 celebrations.

G. F. Sharpe, city purchasing agent, was authorized by City Council to attend the Pacific Northwest Public Buyers' Association meeting April 20 and Pacific Northwest Purchasing Agents' conference April 21.

Says West Requires Crow's Nest Rates

OTTAWA (CP)—The low "Crow's Nest Pass" freight rates on grain still are necessary to the west, the Royal Commission on Transportation was told Tuesday.

H. Harries, Alberta government economic adviser, testified the rates were still serving the purpose for which they were originally negotiated in 1897—to aid in the development of the grain industry.

Arrow Injury Costs B.C. Boy Sight Of Eye

VANCOUVER (CP)—The injured eye of eight-year-old Michael Green of Prince Rupert, B.C., has been removed by a city physician.

The boy, son of Dr. and Mrs. L. M. Green, suffered a torn pupil when an arrow pierced his eye while he was playing. He was flown to Vancouver, where doctors found it was impossible to save the eye. The operation was performed Saturday.

Princess In Malta

VALETTA, Malta (Reuter)—Princess Elizabeth arrived here Tuesday to visit her husband, Prince Philip, now serving with the Mediterranean fleet. She was met on arrival by the governor, Sir Gerald Cressy, but her husband wasn't able to meet her. He is at sea, but is due back Friday when the fleet returns to Malta from its spring cruise.

Acheson Urges More Help For Southeast Asia

Acheson's loyalty program in the department has been described as "soft" and Senator Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis.) has termed Jessup an associate of pro-Communists. Jessup denied that charge recently while testifying under oath.

Labor Minister John Cates said last week there would be no change in the labor code this year.

They are: John Orlich of Brocket, Alta., and Daniel Weiss of Calgary. They elected summary trial in police court. Floyd Marshall of Calgary elected trial by higher court on similar charges.

Mrs. Esther Calkin Brunauer (above), State Department policy adviser labeled by Senator Joseph McCarthy as a poor security risk, denied the charges as she appeared before a Senate Foreign Relations Subcommittee. She said she is "a loyal American," is not a Communist, and has never been a Communist or Communist sympathizer. — (NEA Telephoto)

The Allied wartime commander talked with reporters prior to appearing before a Senate appropriations subcommittee considering the military budget for the fiscal year that begins next July 1.

Eisenhower, now president of Columbia University, was asked by a reporter if there were any differences between him and administration officials about the size of the defence fund.

"If there are any differences, I don't know about them," the general replied quickly. "That's what I'm down here for, any questions that Senators may have."

Eisenhower was requested to testify after he had deplored the state of the nation's defences in a speech last week. He said then that the United States "has disarmed to the extent—in some directions even beyond the extent—that I, with deep concern for her present safety, could possibly advise."

LONDON (UP)—Lord Vansittart, former Foreign Office Under-Secretary, said today the British Civil Service and the British Broadcasting Corporation were riddled by a "whole host" of Communists.

He demanded a purge.

He said many British and Commonwealth leaders harbored a delusion that Communism was "just another philosophy." The British national attitude toward the Communists, he said, was "one of laissez faire and slop along, frighteningly reminiscent Britain in the latter days. In response, he said, "has been informed by hostile missions masquerading under the name of diplomacy." He renewed his demand for a diplomatic break with Russia and her satellites.

"Communist infiltration into our civil service has reached the point where it can no longer be treated with inattention," he said.
